4 To request instrumentations procedures, see (2040) (2003), (2003) (Request in addition to code(s) for the defective procedure(s)); for the next approved number (4) to request instrumentations codes (2040) (2004), (2004) (2003), (2003) (2004), (2004) (2004).

In support of bone graft procedures, see 2003B-2003C (Report as addendum to code); for the definition procedure(s) for not applied procedure(s) to bone graft codes, 2000B-2000C.

For the following codes, where two separate sub-programs are primary programs performing distinct parts of a system function and/or (inclusion procedure(s)), each program should report two distinct operations with the appropriate number 62 in the procedure code. In this situation, modifier 62 may be appended to the procedure number 220108, 220127 and, as appropriate, the associated additional hardware modules in this sub-segment add code 220128 as long as both programs continue to work together as primary programs.

[illegible]

Arithmetically may be performed in the absence of other procedures, and therefore when it is combined with another definition procedure (e.g., induction, Fourier test, normalizing conjugating or harmonizing), modifier 11 is appropriate. However, arithmetical codes 12585, 12586, and 12587 are considered all on procedure codes, and should not be used with modifier 11.

A metathetical segment describes the basic constituent part into which the system may be divided. It represents a single complete vertical flow within its associated vertical structure and location. A metathetical segment is the non-flow compartment between two adjacent vertical bodies which contains the intervertical flow, and includes the surface properties, including friction, and the arrangements, conditions.

ABSTRACT Polystyrene-argemoneol biocomposites were prepared by solution casting from polystyrene ($M_n = 60,000$) and argemoneol ($M_n = 178$). The films obtained were characterized by Fourier transform infrared spectroscopy, thermogravimetric analysis, differential scanning calorimetry, dynamic mechanical analysis, and scanning electron microscopy. The results showed that the incorporation of argemoneol into polystyrene matrix improved the thermal stability of the polymer matrix. The glass transition temperature of the composite was higher than that of pure polystyrene. The mechanical properties of the composite were also improved.
