Advocacy Organizations and Collective Action Aseem Prakash, Mary Kay Gugerty, 2010-11-25 Advocacy organizations are viewed as actors motivated primarily by principled beliefs This volume outlines a new agenda for the study of advocacy organizations proposing a model of NGOs as collective actors that seek to fulfil normative concerns and instrumental incentives face collective action problems and compete as well as collaborate with other advocacy actors The analogy of the firm is a useful way of studying advocacy actors because individuals via advocacy NGOs make choices which are analytically similar to those that shareholders make in the context of firms The authors view advocacy NGOs as special types of firms that make strategic choices in policy markets which along with creating public goods support organizational survival visibility and growth Advocacy NGOs strategy can therefore be understood as a response to opportunities to supply distinct advocacy products to well defined constituencies as well as a response to normative or principled concerns Improving Effective Coverage in Health Damien de Walque, Eeshani Kandpal, Adam Wagstaff, Jed Friedman, Moritz Piatti-Fünfkirchen, Anja Sautmann, Gil Shapira, Ellen Van de Poel, 2022-05-18 In many low and middle income countries health coverage has improved dramatically in the past two decades but health outcomes have not As such effective coverage a measure of service delivery that meets a minimum standard of quality remains unacceptably low Improving Effective Coverage in Health examines one specific policy approach to improving effective coverage financial incentives in the form of performance based financing PBF a package reform that typically includes performance pay to frontline health workers as well as facility autonomy transparency and community engagement This Policy Research Report draws on a rich set of rigorous studies and new analysis When compared with business as usual in low income settings with centralized health systems PBF can result in substantial gains in effective coverage However the relative benefits of PBF the performance pay component in particular are less clear when it is compared with two alternative approaches direct facility financing which provides operating budgets to frontline health services with facility autonomy on allocation but not performance pay and demand side financial support for health services that is conditional cash transfers and vouchers Although PBF often results in improvements on the margins closing the substantial gaps in effective health coverage is not yet within reach for many countries Nonetheless important lessons and experiences from the rollout of PBF over the past decade can guide health financing into the future In particular to be successful health financing reform may need to pivot from performance pay while retaining the elements of direct facility financing autonomy transparency and community engagement Evaluating Development Effectiveness George Keith Pitman, Osvaldo NÃ©stor Feinstein, Gregory K. Ingram, Practitioners give insights on building and satisfying demand for evaluation in developing countries and on the use of evaluation findings to improve decision making on development policies and programs This volume offers useful insights into methods for evaluating the effectiveness of development and assessing the performance of development aid and aid agencies BOOK JACKET Exploring Microeconomics Robert L.
