

CHAPTER 24: The Wave Nature of Light

Answers to Questions

1. Huygens' principle applies both to sound waves and water waves. Huygens' principle applies to all waves that form a wave crest. Both sounds and water waves can be represented in this way.
2. A piece of evidence that light is energy is that you can focus the light from the Sun with a magnifying glass on to a sheet of paper and burn a hole in it. You have added so much energy to the paper that its temperature rises to the point where it ignites.
3. There are certain situations where describing light as rays works well (for example, lenses) and there are other situations where describing light as waves works well (for example, diffraction). Actually, the ray model doesn't work at all when describing diffraction. Thus, there are always limitations to the "models" we use to describe nature and we need to realize what these are.
4. The main reason that we can hear sounds around corners, but not see around corners, is diffraction. Sound waves have very long wavelengths when compared to light waves, which makes diffraction effects much more obvious. Diffraction effects are very noticeable once the size of the object that the wave is diffracting around is about the same size as the wavelength of the wave. The wavelength of sound is on the order of 1 m, while the wavelength of light is on the order of $0.1\ \mu\text{m}$. A secondary reason is reflection. Sounds waves reflect off of walls very well in a specular manner, and so can bounce around corners, but light reflects off of the walls in a very diffuse manner.
5. The wavelength of light in a medium such as water is decreased when compared to the wavelength in air. Thus, $d \sin \theta = m\lambda$ says that θ is decreased for a particular m and d . This means that the bright spots on the screen are more closely packed together in water than in air.
6. As red light is switched to blue light, the wavelength of the light is decreased. Thus, $d \sin \theta = m\lambda$ says that θ is decreased for a particular m and d . This means that the bright spots on the screen are more closely packed together with blue light than with red light.
7. Destructive interference occurs when the path lengths of two rays of light from the same source differ by odd half-integers of the wavelength ($\lambda/2$, $3\lambda/2$, $5\lambda/2$, $(m + \frac{1}{2})\lambda$, etc.). Under these conditions, the wave crests from one ray match up with the wave troughs from the other ray and cancellation occurs (destructive interference).
8. One reason was that the double-slit experiment allowed scientists to measure an actual wavelength, which was something that could not be done at the time with diffraction observations. Another reason was that using a particle model, you could explain diffraction in a qualitative way by talking about the particles bouncing off the edges of the diffracting object or the two edges of a single slit. When a second slit is added, the particle model had a much more difficult time explaining why there are now dark spots where the particles used to be able to strike with only one slit open.
9. Similarities between doing a double-slit experiment with sound and light: the sources must be coherent for the interference pattern to be observed; they both produce a pattern of high and low intensity at some distance away from the double slit (bright and dark for the light and loud and quiet for the sound); they both work best with a single-frequency source. Differences between doing a double-slit experiment with
