anthropology and writing The Construction of Words Geert Booij, 2018-04-13 This volume focuses on detailed studies of various aspects of Construction Morphology and combines theoretical analysis and descriptive detail. It deals with data from several domains of linguistics and contributes to an integration of findings from various subdisciplines of linguistics into a common model of the architecture of language. It presents applications and extensions of the model of Construction Morphology to a wide range of languages. Construction Morphology is one of the theoretical paradigms in present day morphology. It makes use of concepts of Construction Grammar for the analysis of word formation and inflection. Complex words are seen as constructions that is pairs of form and meaning. Morphological patterns are accounted for by construction schemas. These are the recipes for coining new words and word forms and they motivate the properties of existing complex words. Both schemas and individual words are stored and hence there is no strict separation of lexicon and grammar. In addition to abstract schemas there are subschemas for subclasses of complex words with specific properties. This architecture of the grammar is in harmony with findings from other empirical domains of linguistics such as language acquisition, word processing and language change.

Building a Capable State Ian Palmer, Nishendra Moodley, Susan Parnell, 2017-11-15 The sustainable development goals signed in 2016 marked a new phase in global development thinking, one which is focused on ecologically and fiscally sustainable human settlements. Few countries offer a better testing ground for their attainment than post-apartheid South Africa. Since the coming to power of the African National Congress, the country has undergone a policy making revolution driven by an urgent need to improve access to services for the country's black majority. A quarter century on from the fall of apartheid, Building a Capable State asks what lessons can be learned from the South African experience. The book assesses whether the South African government has succeeded in improving service delivery, focusing on the vital sectors of water and sanitation, energy, roads, public transport and housing. Emphasizing the often overlooked role of local government institutions and finance, the book demonstrates that effective service delivery can have a profound impact on the social structure of emerging economies and must form an integral part of any future development strategy. A comprehensive examination of urban service delivery in the global South, Building a Capable State is essential reading for students and practitioners across the social sciences, public finance and engineering sectors.

Pediatric Epidemiology W. Kiess, C. -G. Bornehag, C. Gennings, 2017-11-27 Pediatric epidemiology differs substantially from general epidemiology, especially when it comes to ethical, developmental and societal aspects. This unique book addresses biological considerations and ethical and legal questions in dealing with pediatric and adolescent populations. Classic topics such as how to recruit representative samples, how to deal with confounding variables and how to work with genetic information are the core areas of the book, and are also in focus. Last but not the least, this volume adds to the current understanding of global trends in occurrence, transmission and control of epidemic pediatric diseases. This book not only serves as a textbook for epidemiologists, pediatricians, geneticists and child and public health specialists, but is also a key reference for those embarking on pediatric cohort studies and epidemiological studies involving the pediatric population

Gendered Spaces, Religion and Migration in Zimbabwe Ezra Chitando, Sophia Chirongoma, Molly Manyonganise, 2022-10-12 This book explores the intersections of gender religion and migration within the context of post independent Zimbabwe with a specific focus on how gender disparities impact economic development By demonstrating how these interconnections impact women s and girls lived realities the book addresses the need for gender equity gender inclusion and gender mainstreaming in both religious and societal institutions This book assesses the gender and migration nexus in Zimbabwe and examines the impact of religious cultural ideologies on the status of women. In doing so it assesses the transition of Zimbabwean women across spaces and provides insights into the practical strategies that can be utilised to improve their status both at home and on the move. Furthermore, chapters show how space continues to be gendered in ways that perpetuate structural inequality to challenge the exclusion of women from key social processes. Contributing to ongoing scholarly debates on gender in Africa, this book will be of interest to academics and students of Gender Studies, Women's Studies, African Studies, Development Studies, as well as advocates of human rights and gender activists.

Climate Change Epistemologies in Southern Africa Jörn Ahrens, Ernst Halbmayer, 2023-05-26 This book investigates the social and cultural dimensions of climate change in Southern Africa, focusing on how knowledge about climate change is conceived and conveyed. Despite contributing very little to the global production of emissions, the African continent looks set to be the hardest hit by climate change. Adopting a decolonial perspective, this book argues that knowledge and discourse about climate change has largely disregarded African epistemologies, leading to inequalities in knowledge systems. Only by considering regionally specific forms of conceptualizing, perceiving, and responding to climate change can these global problems be tackled. First exploring African epistemologies of climate change, the book then goes on to the social impacts of climate change, matters of climate justice, and finally institutional change and adaptation. Providing important insights into the social and cultural perception and communication of climate change in Africa, this book will be of interest to researchers from across the fields of African studies, sociology, anthropology, philosophy, political science, climate change, and geography.

Indigenous Archives in Postcolonial Contexts Mpho Ngoepe, Sindiso Bhebhe, 2023-12-06 Indigenous Archives in Postcolonial Contexts revisits the definition of a record and extends it to include memory, murals, rock art, paintings, and other objects. Drawing on five years of research and examples from Zimbabwe, Botswana, and South Africa, the authors analyse archives in the African context. Considering issues such as authentication, ownership, and copyright, the book considers how murals and their like can be used as extended or counter archives. Arguing that extended archives can reach people in a way that traditional archives cannot, and that such archives can be used to bridge the gaps identified within archival repositories, the authors also examine how such archives are managed and authenticated using traditional archival principles. Presenting case studies from organisations such as Gay and Lesbian Memory in Action, Archives GALA, and heritage projects such as the Makgabeng Open Cultural Museum, the authors also analyse Indigenous family praises and songs and explore how such records are preserved and transmitted to the next generation. Indigenous Archives in Postcolonial Contexts demonstrates how the voices of the marginalised can be incorporated into archives, making an important contribution to the effort to decolonise African archives. The book will be essential reading for academics and students working in archival studies, library, and information science, Indigenous studies, African studies, cultural heritage, history, and anthropology. Textbook of
