Labour and Economic Change in Southern Africa c.1900-2000 Rory Pilosof, Andrew Cohen, 2021-06-03 This book explores the social and economic development of Zimbabwe, Zambia and Malawi over the course of the twentieth century. These three countries have long shared and interconnected pasts. All three were drawn into the British Empire at a similar time and the formation of the ill-fated Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland formally linked these countries together for a decade in the mid-twentieth century. This formal political relationship created dynamics that resulted in yet closer economic and social links. After Federation, the economic realities of industry, transport and labour supplies meant that these three countries continued to be intricately interconnected. Yet despite these connected pasts, comparative work on the economic histories of Malawi, Zambia and Zimbabwe and how these change over time is rare. This book addresses the gap by providing the first comprehensive collection of labour and census data across the twentieth century for these three countries. The different economic models and performances of these states offer good comparison, allowing researchers to look at different models of development and how these played out over the long term. The book provides data on population growth and change, industrial and occupational structure, and the various shifts in what the economically active population did. It will be useful for historians, economists, development studies scholars, and non-governmental organisations working on twentieth century and contemporary southern Africa. The American Farmer in the Eighteenth Century Richard L. Bushman, 2018-05-22 An illuminating study of America's agricultural society during the Colonial, Revolutionary and Founding eras. In the eighteenth century, three quarters of Americans made their living from farms. This authoritative history explores the lives, cultures and societies of America's farmers from colonial times through the founding of the nation. Noted historian Richard Bushman explains how all farmers sought to provision themselves while still actively engaged in trade, making both subsistence and commerce vital to farm economies of all sizes. The book describes the tragic effects on the native population of farmers' efforts to provide farms for their children and examines how climate created the divide between the free North and the slave South. Bushman also traces mid-century rural violence back to the century's population explosion. An engaging work of historical scholarship, the book draws on a wealth of diaries, letters and other writings, including the farm papers of Thomas Jefferson and George Washington, to open a window on the men, women and children who worked the land in early America. Yearbook of International Organizations 2014-2015 (Volume 4) Union Of International Associations, Union of International Associations, 2014-09-17 The Yearbook of International Organizations provides the most extensive coverage of non-profit international organizations currently available. Yearbook include networks between associations biographies of key people involved and extensive statistical data Providing both an international organizations and research bibliography Volume 4 cites over 46 000 publications and information resources supplied by international organizations and provides nearly 18 000 research citations under 40 subject headings This volume also includes a research bibliography on international organizations and transnational associations

These Potatoes Look Like Humans Mbuso Nkosi,2023-09 These Potatoes Look Like Humans offers a unique understanding of the intersection of land labour dispossession and violence experienced by Black South Africans from the apartheid period to the present Critiquing the narrow materialist and legalistic arguments about the land question uMbuso weNkosi recognises that for most Black South Africans the meaning of land cannot be separated from one s spiritual and ancestral connection to it Taking the historic 1959 potato boycott in South Africa as a starting point weNkosi turns an unflinching gaze on how past and present continue to inform the future He argues that the violence to which Black farmworkers have been subjected is more than brutal exploitation of cheap labour It stems from the anxiety white society feels about its oppression of the majority its claims to land ownership and its fears of the future The cycle of violence will persist until there is a recognition of the dead and restless spirits of the land and a spiritual return to home for Black people s ancestors uMbuso weNkosi offers a deeper understanding of the meaning of dispossession the struggle for land reform and the remedies for social justice in today s South Africa uMbuso weNkosi is a Lecturer in the Department of Sociology at the University of Pretoria
