November 2014 Life Science Scope:

Art and Future Peter Stupples, Jane Venis, 2018-04-18 This selection of essays examines the future of art in a changing world. In particular contributors discuss the agency of art in conditions of ecological threats to the natural world to climate change and the effects of globalisation, neoliberal economics and mass tourism. Following the lead of Chicago based Frances Whitehead whose essay is a key text, some contributors take positions on working with local government agencies to embed art thinking within development projects going back to the art thinking at the centre of Kazimir Malevich's work in Vitebsk one hundred years ago in Russia. Other papers highlight small scale art interventions that bring ecological issues to public notice and suggest positive responses whilst others discuss large scale problems brought about by the social economic and laissez faire history of the emerging Anthropocene with possible dystopic outcomes. Dual use life science research

(DUR/C), 2021-12-29 Regulatory Protection in the Pharmaceutical and Life Science Industries Żaneta

Zemła-Pacud, 2025-06-09 This book examines the EU framework for regulatory protection in life science industries with a particular focus on the pharmaceutical sector. Żaneta Zemła-Pacud discusses the rules governing regulatory exclusivities and rewards for innovative life science products and the regulatory data underlying them. The author presents the framework's meaning for the sector as a sui generis instrument of protection of Intellectual Property and provides an up to date analysis of the legislation driving EU reform of pharmaceutical regulation. Dual-use life science research and biosecurity in the 21st Century: Social, Technical, Policy, and Ethical Challenges

Jonathan E. Suk, Kathleen M. Vogel, Amanda Jane Ozin, 2015-06-04 In September 2011 scientists announced new experimental findings that would not only threaten the conduct and publication of influenza research but would have significant policy and intelligence implications. The findings presented a modified variant of the H5N1 avian influenza virus hereafter referred to as the H5N1 virus that was transmissible via aerosol between ferrets. These results suggested a worrisome possibility: the existence of a new airborne and highly lethal H5N1 virus that could cause a deadly global pandemic. In response a series of international discussions on the nature of dual use life science arose. These discussions addressed the complex social, technical, political, security and ethical issues related to dual use research. This Research Topic will be devoted to contributions that explore this matrix of issues from a variety of case study and international perspectives. Learning Under the Lens

Annemaree Carroll, Ross Cunnington, Annita Nugent, 2020-12-01 Learning Under the Lens: Applying Findings from the Science of Learning to the Classroom highlights the innovative approach being undertaken by researchers from the disparate fields of neuroscience, education and psychology working together to gain a better understanding of how we learn and its potential to impact student learning outcomes. The book is structured in four parts. Science of learning: a policy perspective sets the scene for this emerging field of research. Self regulation of learning and Technology and learning feature findings by eminent international and national researchers in the field and provides an insight into some of the innovative research illustrating the depth breadth and multi disciplinary of the research and Research translation focuses on the scaled up implementation of research findings in authentic learning settings and showcases research findings which are having impact in learning environments This fascinating book is intended as a reference tool to create awareness among researchers policy makers and education practitioners of the research being undertaken in the science of learning field and its potential to impact student learning outcomes
