

Read the following text and answer the questions given below.

Life of Sea Otters

- ① The relationship between a mother and her pup shows the most intimate association in a sea otter's life. The adult male provides no parental care, which is typical for most mammals. However a female sea otter spends a great deal of time and energy in caring for her offspring, which depend on her for nourishment and protection.
- ② A mother and her pup are never far apart during the entire time. A pup spends most of its time riding on its mother's belly. Even very large pups, six months or older, may still try to "climb on board". You can't help but feel sorry for a mother struggling to paddle with a pup nearly her own size riding on her stomach!
- ③ A mother's protective behaviour towards her offspring is obvious to anyone. Scientists have made interesting observations on mothers' and pups' behaviour. One mother was found fondling the dead body of a pup and attempting to groom the dead body. In Monterey Harbour, one female who had just lost her pup was seen mothering a plastic bottle - holding it under her chin and fondling it as if it were her pup. One brave mother actually climbed into a boat to rescue her large pup.
- ④ While being attentive to their own young, females rarely care for another mother's pup, probably in part because there's little chance that a mother who has lost her own pup will encounter an orphan.
- ⑤ A pup gets most of its nourishments by nursing from its mother for the first two months of its life. Although the mother continues to suckle her pup throughout the dependency period, the pup gradually adds more solid food to its diet.
- ⑥ A female's two nipples are often visible on her lower abdomen when she is producing milk. Like other marine mammals, sea otters produce milk that's extremely rich in protein and fat and low in lactose or milk sugar.
