

Population Ecology Lab Exercise Using Mice and Fox in a Meadow Ecosystem

Materials:

- One habitat container
- 100 red beads - these are 'control' and represent times that the mice will escape/gets away; "strikes".
- 100 yellow beads - these represent the prey species; mice
- Data sheet
- Graph paper
- Colored pencils
- Fox - students will be the predators in this lab exercise

Procedure:

1. Place 100 control (red beads) in the habitat
 2. Add 10 mice (yellow or white beads) to the habitat
- Generation 1 - Your designated 'fox' will draw 15 beads from the habitat, without looking.

If the fox gets 5 yellow/white/mouse beads, it survives and reproduces. You would start generation 2 with 2 fox- the survivor and its offspring.

If a fox gets 10 mice it survives and has 2 babies (fox total is now 3).

If the fox captures less than 5 mice it dies (and doesn't reproduce either).

Count the number of mice left in the habitat container - each of these survivors reproduces. For example, if your fox captures 3 of the ten mice (this fox starves) but the 7 mice left in the container reproduce. You would then start generation 2 with 14 mice.

Always start each generation with a minimum of 10 mice and 1 fox; even if all of your organisms die, assume that new ones will discover your meadow and immigrate.

Never have more than 200 mice or 20 fox. (We have set an arbitrary carrying capacity for this meadow.)

Generation 2 - Place beads in your habitat that represent the next generation of mice and fox; consider that some have reproduced and some have starved.

If you have more than one fox, then each fox captures its 15 beads individually. The first fox takes 15 beads, counts the mice and PUTS THE RED BACK. Then the 2nd fox takes 15 beads, counts the mice and RETURNS THE RED. Eventually the more fox you have the more that will start starving, and the "early fox gets the mouse".

Total the mice caught by all your fox, subtract from 100 and double the survivors. This is your prey number for the next generation.

Continue for 20 generations.

"its getting harder and harder to find food with all this competition!"

Laboratory Exercises for Freshwater Ecology John E. Havel, 2016-03-17 Limnology stream ecology and wetland ecology all share an interdisciplinary perspective of inland aquatic habitats Scientists working in these fields explore the roles of geographic position physical and chemical properties and the other biota on the different kinds of plants and animals living in freshwaters How do these creatures interact with each other and with their physical environment In what ways have humans impacted aquatic habitats By what methods do freshwater ecologists study these environments With this new laboratory manual Havel provides a variety of accessible hands on exercises to illuminate key concepts in freshwater ecology These exercises include a mixture of field trips indoor laboratory exercises and experiments with some portions involving qualitative observations and others more quantitative With the help of this manual students will develop an appreciation for careful techniques used in the laboratory and in the field as well as an understanding of how to collect accurate field notes keep a well organized lab notebook and write clear scientific reports

Population Dynamics and Laboratory Ecology Robert Desharnais, 2005-08-04 Population Dynamics and Laboratory Ecology highlights the contributions laboratory studies are making to our understanding of the dynamics of ecological and evolutionary systems Chapters address the scientific rationale for laboratory ecology its historical role within the broader discipline and recent advances in research The book presents results from a wide range of laboratory systems including insects mites plankton protists and microbes A common theme throughout the book is the value of microcosm studies in advancing our knowledge of ecological and evolutionary principles Each chapter is authored by scientists who are leading experts in their fields The book addresses fundamental questions that are of interest to biologists whether they work in the laboratory or field or whether they are primarily empiricists or theorists Details a scientific rationale for laboratory systems in ecological and evolutionary studies Offers a view on historical role of laboratory studies Includes examples of recent research advances in ecology and evolution using laboratory systems ranging from insects to microbes Integrates mathematics statistics and experimental studies

Steele, 2021-01-05 The definitive examination of oak forest evolutionary ecology Seed dispersal is a critical stage in the life cycle of most flowering plants The process can have far reaching effects on a species biology especially numerous aspects of its ecology and evolution This is particularly the case for the oaks in which the dispersal of the acorn is tied to numerous tree characteristics as well as the behavior and ecology of the animals that feed on and move these seeds to their final destination Forest structure composition and genetics often follow directly from the dispersal process while also influencing it in turn In Oak Seed Dispersal Michael A Steele draws on three decades of field research across the globe e g the United States Mexico Central America Europe and China to describe the interactions between oaks and their seed consumers Rodents birds and insects he writes collectively influence the survival movement and germination of acorns as well as the establishment of seedlings often indicating a coevolutionary bond between oaks and their seed consumers This bond can only be understood by unraveling the complex interactions that occur in the context of factors such as partial seed consumption due to acorn chemistry scatterhoarding predation of the seed consumers by other organisms and the limiting effects of masting on insect rodent and jay damage Offering new insights on how animal mediated dispersal drives ecological and evolutionary processes in forest ecosystems Oak Seed Dispersal also includes an overview of threatened oak forests across the globe and explains how a lack of acorn dispersal contributes to many important conservation challenges Highly illustrated the book includes photographs of key dispersal organisms and tactics as well as a foreword by Stephen B Vander Wall a leading authority on food hoarding and animal mediated seed dispersal and beautiful artwork by Tad C Theimer also an accomplished ecologist Catalogs of Courses University of California, Berkeley,1995 Includes general and summer catalogs issued between 1878 1879 and 1995 1997 Summaries of Projects Completed in Fiscal Year ... , Summaries of Projects Completed National Science Foundation (U.S.), Summaries of Projects Completed in Fiscal Year ... discussions of chemistry are complemented by coverage on the behavior of the animal dynamics of the ecosystem real life situations like drought and predators in the system i e the natural system versus the lab setting The book s first section contains chapters on the principles of contaminant toxicology including a brief history of the science of ecotoxicology basic principles of the science testing methods and ways of determining if animals have been exposed to either acute or chronic concentrations of contaminants The second section deals with the primary classes of contaminants including their chemical characteristics sources uses and effects on organisms The third section focuses on more complex issues such as the regulation of pollution population and community effects risk assessment and modelling Uses examples from both aquatic and terrestrial environments and species Includes a Terms to Know section and a list of study questions in each chapter fostering a greater understanding of the issues Focuses on the effects of contaminants on wildlife while providing enough chemistry to allow a detailed understanding of the various contaminant groups Emphasizes natural examples and real species rather than laboratory studies on only a handful of organisms Features case histories detailing actual events that include aspects of how the contamination occurred and its effects on wildlife Provides material from a wide variety of international sources

Population-Level Ecological Risk Assessment Lawrence W. Barnthouse,Jr. Munns,Mary T. Sorensen,2007-09-25 Most ecological risk assessments consider the risk to individual organisms or organism level attributes From a management perspective however risks to population level attributes and processes are often more relevant Despite many published calls for population risk assessment and the abundance of available scientific research and technical tool
