beyond Insurgencies and Revolutions Haripriya Rangan, Mee Kam NG, Libby Porter, Jacquelyn Chase, 2016-10-26 Over the past six or more decades John Friedmann has been an insurgent force in the field of urban and regional planning transforming it from its traditional state centered concern for establishing social and spatial order into a radical domain of collaborative action between state and civil society for creating the good society in the present and future By opening it up to theoretical engagement with a wide range of disciplines Friedmann's contributions have revolutionised planning as a transdisciplinary space of critical thinking social learning and reflective practice Insurgencies and Revolutions brings together former students close research associates and colleagues of John Friedmann to reflect on his contributions to planning theory and practice The volume is organized around five broad themes where Friedmann's contributions have risen to challenge established paradigms and generated the space for revolutionary thinking and action in urban and regional planning Theorising hope Economic development and regionalism World cities and the Good city Social learning empowered communities and citizenship and Chinese cities The essays by the authors reflect their engagement with his ideas and the new directions in which they have taken these in their work in planning theory and practice Public Norms and Aspirations Willem Salet, 2018-03-05 The aspirations of individuals organizations and states and their perceptions of problems and possible solutions circulate fast in this instantaneous society Yet the deliberation of the underlying public norms seems to escape the attention of the public Institutions enable people to have reliable expectations of one another even when they are unsure of each other's aspirations and purposes Public norms enable people to act under conditions of increasing uncertainty To fulfill this role in society institutions need enhancement maintenance and innovation Public Norms and Aspirations aims to improve the methodology of planning research and practice by exploring the co evolution of institutional innovation and the philosophy of pragmatism in processes of action As most attention in planning research and planning practices goes to the pragmatic approaches of aspirations and problem solving the field is awaiting an upgrade of institutional perspectives This book aims to explore the interaction of institutional and pragmatic thought and to suggest how these two approaches might be integrated and applied in successful planning research Searching this combination at the interface of sociology planning and law Salet opens a unique niche in the existing planning literature Planning for Small Town Change Neil Powe, Trevor Hart, 2017-02-17 Change is inevitable in all communities they both grow and decline Planning is a means by which we have sought to manage this change It has not always succeeded in providing the types of settlements and environments which many residents and others want either because it is operating with the wrong policies or because it is failing to ensure that the right policies are effectively implemented These failings have opened planning to criticism by a dominant neoliberal orthodoxy which shapes an increasingly difficult environment in which planning has to operate Planning for Small Town Change builds on an underexploited selection of international research and the authors English case studies to consider the efficacy of planning for change Drawing on insightful small town experiences three themes emerge understanding and conceptualising change appreciating the potential within place and the mechanisms for planning and delivery The research draws on many examples of how key actors have made a significant difference to specific places and provides important insights into how the planning process can be better matched to the long term and complex challenges faced Whilst small town experiences are often neglected they are found to be particularly insightful in understanding the potential roles of local communities and the importance of place quality when planning for change
