Apartheid's Black Soldiers Lennart Bolliger, 2021-10-01 New oral histories from Black Namibian and Angolan troops who fought in apartheid South Africa's security forces reveal their involvement and its impact on their lives to be far more complicated than most historical scholarship has acknowledged In anticolonial struggles across the African continent tens of thousands of African soldiers served in the militaries of colonial and settler states In southern Africa they often made up the bulk of these militaries and in some contexts far outnumbered those who fought in the liberation movements armed wings Despite these soldiers significant impact on the region's military and political history this dimension of southern Africa's anticolonial struggles has been almost entirely ignored in previous scholarship Black troops from Namibia and Angola spearheaded apartheid South Africa's military intervention in their countries respective anticolonial war and postindependence civil war Drawing from oral history interviews and archival sources Lennart Bolliger challenges the common framing of these wars as struggles of national liberation fought by and for Africans against White colonial and settler state armies Focusing on three case studies of predominantly Black units commanded by White officers Bolliger investigates how and why these soldiers participated in South Africa's security forces and considers the legacies of that involvement In tackling these questions he rejects the common tendency to categorize the soldiers as collaborators and traitors and reveals the un national facets of anticolonial struggles Finally the book's unique analysis of apartheid military culture shows how South Africa's military units were far from monolithic and instead developed distinctive institutional practices mythologies and concepts of militarized masculinity

Gender, Power, and Identity in The Films of Stanley Kubrick Karen A. Ritzenhoff, Dijana Metlič, Jeremi Szaniawski, 2022-10-21 This volume features a set of thought provoking and long overdue approaches to situating Stanley Kubrick's films in contemporary debates around gender race and age with a focus on women's representations Offering new historical and critical perspectives on Kubrick's cinema the book asks how his work should be viewed bearing in mind issues of gender equality sexual harassment and abuse The authors tackle issues such as Kubrick's at times questionable relationships with his actresses and former wives the dynamics of power misogyny and miscegenation in his films and auteur apologism among others The selections delineate these complex contours of Kubrick's work by drawing on archival sources engaging in close readings of specific films and exploring Kubrick through unorthodox venture points With an interdisciplinary scope and social justice centered focus this book offers new perspectives on a well established area of study It will appeal to scholars and upper level students of film studies media studies gender studies and visual culture as well as to fans of the director interested in revisiting his work from a new perspective Rethinking Humanitarian Intervention in the 21st Century Aiden Warren, 2017-06-02 Since the end of the Cold War humanitarian interventions have continued to evolve and respond to a wide range of political crises These insightful essays focus on the challenges associated with interventions when facing conflict and human rights violations unmitigated systematic violence state re building human mobility and dislocation Each chapter is linked to the rest through three defining themes that permeate the book the evolution of humanitarian interventions in a global era the limits of sovereignty and the ethics of interventions and the politics of post intervention re building and humanitarian engagement The authors incorporate a variety of case studies including Kosovo Timor Leste Syria Libya and Iraq and examine the complexity of interventions across their different dimensions including relevant doctrines such as R2P Use of Force and Human Security Metaphors of ANGER across Languages:

Universality and Variation Zoltan Kövecses, Réka Benczes, Veronika Szelid, 2024-11-04 Anger is one of the basic emotions of human emotional experience informing and guiding many of our choices and actions Although it has received considerable scholarly attention in a number of disciplines including linguistics a basic question has still remained unresolved why do variations in the folk model of anger exist across languages if it is indeed a basic emotion rooted in largely universal bodily experience By drawing on a wide selection of comparable linguistic data from dozens of languages including a number of less researched languages this volume provides the most comprehensive account of what is universal and what is variable in the folk model of anger and why It also investigates the role that metonymies might play in the emergence of anger related metaphors and in what ways context influences or shapes anger metaphors and thereby the resulting folk model of anger No such volume exists in the cognitive linguistic literature on anger or on emotions for that matter The book is thus an essential contribution to the study of anger and will serve as basic reading for any researcher interested in how the conceptualization of anger is constructed via the interplay of bodily experience language and the larger cultural context Including the Excluded in South Asia Madhushree Sekher, Radu Carciumaru, 2019-10-19 This book analyses and discusses the multiple dimensions of social exclusion inclusion seen in South Asia It not only captures how social exclusion is intrinsic to deprivation or deprivation in itself but also the processes of political engagement and social interactions that the socially excluded develop as strategies and networks for their advancement Consequently the book goes beyond structures or agency and examines the question of a more dynamic approach to provide spaces for the socially excluded to self manage exclusion thereby raising discussions around the contested positions that underlie development discourse on social inequality While social exclusion linked to identities is studied the book argues that hierarchies and inequalities based on social identities cut across and affect various groups of excluded. Consequently these phenomena create or lead to various processes of exclusion. The book illustrates that social exclusion should not be limited to privileging the differences that characterize the exclusionary processes but should also comprise underpinning strategies of inclusion emphasizing the need to focus on imperatives to include. As a result the book acknowledges that social exclusion is not limited to analyzing the different identities that face exclusion but also understanding the systems and processes that create social exclusion or create opportunities for inclusion of the excluded. The book addresses readership across academic disciplines including in the growing field of state capacity and governance and practitioners administrators and policy making communities. Conclusively the book provides a platform to intensively exchange the multifaceted and critical issue of social exclusion inclusion and thus contributes to inclusive sustainable development discourse.

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01. This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement force preparation force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy recruitment and retention military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil military relations of countries around the world.
