Lawless,2018-05-30 Winner of the 2019 Chicago Folklore Prize In 2011 the Midwest suffered devastating floods Due to the flooding the US Army Corps of Engineers activated the Birds Point New Madrid Floodway one of the flood prevention mechanisms of the Mississippi Rivers and Tributaries Project This levee breach was intended to divert water in order to save the town of Cairo Illinois but in the process it completely destroyed the small African American town of Pinhook Missouri In When They Blew the Levee Race Politics and Community in Pinhook Missouri authors David Todd Lawrence and Elaine J Lawless examine two conflicting narratives about the flood one promoted by the Corps of Engineers that boasts the success of the levee breach and the flood diversion and the other gleaned from displaced Pinhook residents who in oral narratives tell a different story of neglect and indifference on the part of government officials Receiving inadequate warning and no evacuation assistance during the breach residents lost everything Still after more than six years displaced Pinhook residents have yet to receive restitution and funding for relocation and reconstruction of their town The authors research traces a long history of discrimination and neglect of the rights of the Pinhook community beginning with their migration from the Deep South to southeast Missouri through purchasing and farming the land and up to the Birds Point levee breach nearly eighty years later The residents stories relate what it has been like to be dispersed in other small towns living with relatives and friends while trying to negotiate the bureaucracy surrounding Federal Emergency Management Agency and State Emergency Management Agency assistance programs Ultimately the stories of displaced citizens of Pinhook reveal a strong African American community whose bonds were developed over time and through shared traditions a community persisting despite extremely difficult circumstances applicable for today's practice Suspended Education Aaron Kupchik, 2025-03-18 How the historic resistance to racial desegregation in schools led to the over punishment of students today Every year millions of public school students are suspended This overused punishment removes students from the classroom but it does not improve their behavior Instead suspension disrupts their education harming the students their families and their schools Black students suffer most within this broken system experiencing a far greater risk of school punishment and the significant harms that accompany it Many activists and scholars have considered how school punishment increases racial inequity but few have thought to ask why Why do we punish students the way we do and why have we allowed this harmful practice to impact the lives of our nation's children In Suspended Education Aaron Kupchik takes readers to the root of the issue Suspensions were not intended as a behavior management tool Instead they were designed to remove unwanted students from the classroom Through statistical analysis and in depth case studies of schools in Massachusetts and Delaware Kupchik reveals how suspension rates skyrocketed after the 1954 Brown v Board of Education decision serving as an unofficial means of removing Black children from newly desegregated schools His groundbreaking research traces the legacy of these segregationist movements demonstrating that school districts with more desegregation related legal battles from the 1950s onward suspend more Black students today Combining expert analysis with compelling accessible prose Kupchik makes a powerful case for the end of suspension and other exclusionary punishments The result is a revelatory explanation of a pressing problem facing all children parents and educators today A to Zoo Rebecca L.
