Technical Analysis And Financial Asset Forecasting: From Simple Tools To Advanced Techniques Raymond Hon-fu Chan, Alan Wing-keung Wong, Spike Tsz-ho Lee, 2014-08-19 Technical analysis is defined as the tracking and prediction of asset price movements using charts and graphs in combination with various mathematical and statistical methods. More precisely, it is the quantitative criteria used in predicting the relative strength of buying and selling forces within a market to determine what to buy, what to sell, and when to execute trades. This book introduces simple technical analysis tools like moving averages and Bollinger bands and also advanced techniques such as wavelets and empirical mode decomposition. It first discusses some traditional tools in technical analysis such as trend line, trend channel, Gann's Theory, moving averages, and Bollinger bands. It then introduces a recent indicator developed for stock market and two recent techniques used in the technical analysis field: wavelets and the empirical mode decomposition in financial time series. The book also discusses the theory to test the performance of the indicators and introduces the MATLAB Financial Toolbox, some of the functions/codes of which are used in our numerical experiments. Stock Index Futures Charles M.S. Sutcliffe, 2018-01-18 The global value of trading in index futures is about 20 trillion per year and rising, and for many countries the value traded is similar to that traded on their stock markets. This book describes how index futures markets work and clearly summarises the substantial body of international empirical evidence relating to these markets. Using the concepts and tools of finance, the book also provides a comprehensive description of the economic forces that underlie trading in index futures. Stock Index Futures 3e contains many teaching and learning aids including numerous examples, a glossary, essay questions, comprehensive references, and a detailed subject index. Written primarily for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students, this text will also be useful to researchers and market participants who want to gain a better understanding of these markets. Australian Economic Papers, 2007 Australian national bibliography, 1961 Learning Standards and the Assessment of Quality in Higher Education: Contested Policy Trajectories Jon Yorke, Lesley Vidovich, 2016-07-13 This book analyses accountability and quality policies relating to learning standards and examines their implications for assessment in higher education. Whilst primarily focusing on the Australian setting, this analysis is located within a broader frame of reference that includes the United Kingdom (UK), the United States of America (US), and the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). Across these settings, comparative measures of learning have been seen as a policy solution to the problem of proving quality in a globalised and increasingly competitive higher education market. Comparative measures of learning depend on the specification of learning standards. Learning standards attempt to articulate the capabilities expected of graduates, and students' achievement of these is determined through the practices of assessment carried out within institutions. Quality policy, learning standards, and assessment practices all intersect within the broader umbrella of accountability, with relevance to governments, higher

Gender and Land Tenure in the Context of Disaster in Asia Kyoko Kusakabe, Rajendra Shrestha, Veena N., 2015-06-30 This book explores an interdisciplinary field at the intersection of gender and development studies disaster and land tenure policy It is well known that women generally have weaker claims to land But how does that translate to increased vulnerability during disaster Using case studies from Asia this book argues that land tenure is a key factor in mitigating the impact of disasters on women The scale and frequency of disasters have been increasing in recent decades due to human impact on the landscape and climate Unsustainable farming and land management systems have increased environmental risks and social vulnerabilities However around the world the costs of disasters are disproportionately borne by women due largely to their reduced mobility and lack of control over assets In post disaster settings women s vulnerabilities increase due to gendered rescue and rehabilitation practices As such a gendered approach to land rights is critical to disaster preparedness and recovery financial planners represented in the research and will inform standard setting bodies seeking to understand professionalism through the eyes of the professionals themselves What the research reveals about the concept of professionalism itself will be of value to those whose interests lie beyond the world of financial planning and the application of the methodology used in the study will inform researchers contemplating phenomenographical studies elsewhere

APAIS 1991: Australian public affairs information service , Financial Literacy Education Asta Zokaityte, 2017-06-26 This book explores the issue of consumer financial education responding to increased interest in and calls to improve peoples financial literacy skills and abilities to understand and manage their money New conceptual frameworks introduced in the book offer academic audiences an innovative way of thinking about the project on financial literacy education Using the concepts of education regulation and financial knowledge democratisation to analyse the financial education project in the UK the book exposes serious and often ignored limitations to using information and education as tools for consumer protection It challenges the mainstream representation of financial literacy education as a viable solution to consumer financial exclusion and poverty Instead it argues that the project on financial literacy education fails to acknowledge important dependences between consumer financial behaviour and the socio economic political and cultural context within which consumers live Finally it reveals how these international and national calls for ever greater financial education oversimplify and underestimate the complexity of consumer financial decision making in our modern times
