Industrial Services Handbook U.S. Training and Employment Service, Thomas Flanagan, 1970 The Truth About Hiring the Best Cathy Fyock, 2007-09-24 Talent matters No one denies this fact But there is often a gap between wanting and getting talent Cathy Fyock's 53 Truths provide concrete practical and well tested ideas to close the talent gap The ideas are reasonable grounded in research and actionable This is an excellent book for those who pay attention to hiring The 53 Truths offer a roadmap for doing this important task more effectively Dave Ulrich Professor of Business University of Michigan Partner The RBL Group You think you knew everything you needed to know about employment until you read the most recent catchy FT Press Truth book by staffing expert Cathy Fyock In only 224 pages Fyock effectively uses 53 Truths to challenge

many of HR's long standing assumptions and practices related to recruitment and selection. With everyone wanting to hire the best, this quick read has a high ROI. Michael R. Losey, SPHR, CAE, Former CEO, Society for Human Resource Management. Cathy Fyock knows there is no silver bullet when it comes to successful recruiting and hiring, and that passive tactics do not provide high quality results. She knows the truth. Today's low unemployment rates combined with increasing retirements of Baby Boomers spell trouble for employers hoping to expand. Her fresh approach shows the reader that there are numerous opportunities to connect with great future employees, and she provides practical advice for tapping multiple sources simultaneously, as well as interviewing and making offers. If you want to hire the best, this book is your guide. Nancy S. Ahlrichs, SPHR, President, EOC Strategies LLC. Great business results start with great talent. Get it and keep it. This book reveals 53 Proven Hiring Principles and bite-size, easy-to-use techniques that work. The truth about finding hidden sources of talent. The truth about making great people want to work for you. The truth about interviewing, asking the right questions. Getting the best people for your organization is not only difficult, but the strategies for getting the best often are not obvious. To get the best, you first need to identify who the best are, then determine how to reach the best, and then decide on the best among the best you want to hire. In The Truth About Hiring the Best, you will learn it's not just a job to fill; it's your organization's future that you're creating. Getting the best isn't just about asking the right questions; it's about listening for the right answers, and great people don't want to work for desperate employers. It's a war for talent, and you need to win.

RECRUITMENT AND SELECTION PRACTICES OF IT COMPANIES IN ANDHRA PRADESH - A STUDY OF SELECT UNITS Dr. Ravi Kumar Gummadi, 2015-09-01. A highly successful organisation is built on the strengths of exceptional people. No matter how much technology and mechanisation is developed, no organisation could survive and prosper without them. Luszez and Kleiner, 2001. The most important corporate resource over the next few years will be talent: smart, sophisticated business people who are technologically literate, globally astute, and operationally agile. And even as the demand for talent goes up, the supply of it will be going down. This seems to particularly hold true in the case of the IT/ITES (Information Technology and Information Technology Enabled Services) industry in India, which requires high quality and highly skilled labour force to cater to the rapidly increasing global demand for software services, but is currently facing an increasing shortage of skills supply. Moreover, due to shortages of skilled workers, high turnover rates, and rapid business growth in the service sectors, it has been noted that recruiting, selecting, and placing applicants are among the top three priorities of human resource professionals. Since the IT industry in India is faced with these three challenges, recruitment and selection comprises an important human resource practice in this industry. Further, in this industry, human resources comprise both the raw material and the technology, and are therefore of prime importance. As India completes the transition from being an agrarian economy to being a full-fledged first world economy operating at the leading edge of contemporary technology, the IT sector is emerging as a major driver of the economy. The Indian IT industry comprises of domestic software and services firms, as well as foreign firms looking to consolidate their presence in India owing to the increasing cost pressures in US and Europe This has increased the need to setup in house development centers or outsource to third party service providers in low cost countries such as India IT and IT enabled services include a wide range of services from back office data entry and processing to customer contact services corporate support functions knowledge support functions and research and design activities As per the latest Forbes Research India now controls 44 per cent of the global offshore outsourcing market for software and back office services As per Nasscom estimates it is projected to grow to 51 per cent If this growth is sustained Nasscom has estimated that there will be a potential shortfall of above 2 10 000 IT and ITES professionals in India by the year 2012 and demand will out pace the supply Though the Indian IT industry is in a strong position to leverage this global software opportunity as India currently has one of the world s largest most qualified pools of scientific and engineering manpower this growing global demand is not only for numbers but also for appropriately skilled industry oriented professionals as companies are further scaling their operations and offering high value added services which involve higher levels of technology and more specialized higher end services Hence firms which want to maintain their competitive advantage have to carefully recruit and select the most suitable out of the large pool of available manpower Moreover according to a recent study by McKinsey Co although the potential supply of talent in low wage countries such as India is large and growing rapidly only a fraction of the job candidates could successfully work at a foreign company on account of their limited suitability i e though there are many candidates with the technical skills to fill a position they may not have the cultural skills to fit in with the organisation The same issue is also faced by large globally competitive domestic Indian firms who are competing for the same pool of talent and skills as their foreign counterparts to remain competitive and survive in global and domestic markets
