Quote Accurately

When answering questions about the most important details and events in informational text, it is important to accurately quote text from the story. In addition to quoting text accurately to answer basic comprehension questions, you can also use specific details from the text to make inferences.

When you make inferences, you use what you've read in addition to what you already know to fill in information that is not stated in a selection. You can use inferences to better understand a text and answer questions about it. To make inferences, ask yourself what information is missing from a text. Then think about your own experiences and other texts you've read to help you answer these questions. Here is a helpful visual to show you how inferring works:

Note the kinds of inferences that you might make while reading nonfiction text.

I will read...	I might make inferences about...
Biography/Autobiography	the subject's actions, events, the author's message
Informational Text	causes and effects, problems and solutions

Lanning,Tiffanee Brown,2019-01-10 For literacy teachers looking for practical ways to implement a Curriculum and Instruction Model that s more inquiry driven and idea centered look no further than this book This resource helps bridge the divide between conceptual curriculum and actionable practice and provides practical support for teachers implementing Concept Based literacy lessons Readers will find Step by step help with lesson planning for conceptual understanding and transfer Ideas for supporting inductive learning Classroom Snapshots that showcase familiar literacy practices in Concept Based classrooms Strategies to promote critical reflective and conceptual thinking Model elementary and secondary Concept Based lesson and unit plans A chapter devoted to answering frequently asked questions Text-Dependent Questions,

Grades K-5 Douglas Fisher, Nancy Frey, Heather Anderson, Marisol Thayre, 2014-09-02 Fisher Frey's answer to close and critical reading. Learn the best ways to use text dependent questions as scaffolds during close reading and the big understandings they yield. But that's just for starters. Fisher and Frey also include illustrative video texts and questions, cross curricular examples, and an online facilitator's guide, making the two volumes of TDQ a potent professional development tool across all of K-12. The genius of TDQ is the way Fisher and Frey break down the process into four cognitive pathways: What does the text say? How does the text work? What does the text mean? What does the text inspire you to do? Close Reading with Paired Texts Level 5: Engaging Lessons to Improve Comprehension Oczkus, Lori, 2017-03-01 Prepare fifth grade students for college and career readiness with this content packed resource. Authored by Lori Oczkus and Timothy Rasinski, this resource includes 12 units across the four content areas of language arts, science, social studies, and mathematics. Each unit incorporates close reading, paired fiction and nonfiction text passages, text dependent questions, comparing and contrasting text, and hands on activities to unify each week's worth of lessons. Differentiation and reciprocal teaching strategies and assessment options are also included within each unit to tailor to multiple intelligences and monitor students' progress. Common Core Standards for Elementary Grades 3-5 Math & English Language Arts Amber Evenson, Monette McIver, Susan Ryan, 2013 The latest in the Understanding the Common Core series covers the structure, terminology, and emphases of the standards for both mathematics and English language arts and literacy at the upper elementary level.
