

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

The Antibacterial Resistance Leadership Group (ARLG) seeks to prioritize, design, and execute clinical research that will reduce the public health threat of antibacterial resistance. The ARLG, along with the team of study doctors, scientists, and research coordinators, are pleased to describe the results from the Rapid Diagnostics in Categorizing Acute Lung Infections (RADICAL) study.

We appreciate the time and commitment of the research participants who provided blood samples to the RADICAL study and, in doing so, played such an important role in advancing medical science.

WHY WAS THE RESEARCH NEEDED?

Antibiotics are drugs that treat infections caused by bacteria, but they do not work on viruses, such as colds and the flu. Taking antibiotics when you do not need them can be harmful to you. It can also create drug-resistant bacteria, which is a serious public health issue that can lead to antibiotics that do not work and increased health care costs.

Doctors could better know when to prescribe an antibiotic if they had an easy and quick way to diagnose whether it was a virus or bacteria that caused a patient's infection.

Although doctors can use laboratory tests to help identify what's causing the illness, these tests can be slow, inaccurate, and are often unavailable where patients receive care. Rather than trying to test for the presence of a virus or bacteria, the RADICAL study focuses on how patients respond to the infection. This is possible because, the body's immune responses to bacterial and viral infections are different. Specific genes are turned on or off depending on what type of infection you have. This is called gene expression, or gene activity, and measuring this can help doctors know whether the cause of infection is viral or bacterial.

The RADICAL study team collaborated with a company called BioFire to develop an automated, simplified test that would run on the BioFire FilmArray system. By measuring a patient's gene activity, this test could help doctors separate bacterial infections from viral infections accurately and quickly.

Handbook Methods For Oxygen Radical Research Robert A. Greenwald, 2018-02-01 This volume is divided into five sections Section I deals with preparative methodology for isolation and purification of the components of the oxy radical experimental systems use most frequently including all three forms of SOD and several other important scavengers Section II provides the experimenter with a choice of a dozen oxy radical generating systems which can be used for testing of scavengers or for evaluation of the effects of oxy radicals on target tissues The reader will note that in this section as well as in most of the rest of the volume the orientation is primarily biochemical biologic and medical rather than pure chemistry or pure physics Nevertheless the techniques are widely applicable to a variety of disciplines Free Radical Research in Cancer Ana Čipak Gašparović, 2020-06-18 Cancer is a great challenge to efficient therapy due to biological diversity Disturbed oxidative homeostasis in cancer cells certainly contributes to differential therapy response Further one of the hallmarks of cancer cells is adaptation which includes fine tuning of the cellular metabolic and signalling pathways as well as transcription profiles There are several factors which contribute to the tumor diversity and therapy response and oxidative stress is certainly one of them Changes in oxygen levels due to hypoxia reoxygenation during tumor growth modulate antioxidative patterns finally supporting increased cell diversity and adaptation to stressing conditions Additionally cancer chemotherapy based on ROS production can also induce also adaptation To counteract these negative effects natural products are often used for their antioxidant activities as well as photodynamic therapy supported by novel chemosensitizers Understanding of possible pathways which can trigger antioxidant defence at a certain time during cancer development can also provide possible strategies in fighting cancer Techniques in Free Radical Research A.T. Diplock, M.C.R. Symons, C.A. Rice-Evans, 1991-12-11 Free radical species are generally short lived due to their high reactivity and thus direct measurement and identification are often impossible ESR is the only technique which has the potential for direct detection of radicals but in biological systems even these must be trapped by a spin trapping agent Thus most investigations involve recognition of indicators of the presence of radicals in vivo or FOOTPRINTS of radical mediated damage Techniques in Free Radical Research assembles and critically assesses the most relevant and reliable experimental approaches used towards the measurement of radicals and radical mediated damage in chemical systems in cells and in tissues under the following six headings a Footprints of DNA damage b Footprints of protein damage c Footprints of lipid peroxidation d Footprints of antioxidant consumption e Footprints via indirect radical assays and f Footprints via the availability of transition metal complexes Free Radicals—Advances in Research and Application: 2012 Edition, 2012-12-26 Free Radicals Advances in Research and Application 2012 Edition is a ScholarlyEditions eBook that delivers timely authoritative and comprehensive information about Free Radicals The editors have built Free Radicals Advances in Research and Application 2012 Edition on the vast information databases of ScholarlyNews You can expect the information about Free Radicals in this

Free-Radical-Induced DNA Damage and Its Repair Clemens Sonntag, 2006-03-20 The free radical chemistry of DNA had been discussed in some detail in 1987 in my book The Chemical Basis of Radiation Biology Obviously the more recent developments and the concomitant higher level of understanding of mechanistic details are missing Moreover in the living cell free radical DNA damage is not only induced by ionizing radiation but free radical induced DNA damage is a much more general phenomenon It was therefore felt that it is now timely to review our present knowledge of free radical induced DNA damage induced by all conceivable free radical generating sources Originally it had been thought to include also a very important aspect the repair of DNA damage by the cell's various repair enzymes Kevin Prise Cancer Campaign Gray Laboratory London was so kind to agree to write this part However an adequate description of this strongly expanding area would have exceeded the allocated space by much and this section had to be omitted The directors of the Max Planck Institut für Strahlenchemie now MPI für Bioanorganische Chemie Karl Wieghardt and Wolfgang Lubitz kindly allowed me to continue to use its facilities after my retirement in 2001 Notably our librarian Mrs Jutta Theurich and her right hand help Mrs Rosemarie Schreier were most helpful in getting hold of the literature I thank them very much Without their constant help this would have been very difficult indeed
