

Layers of the Rainforest

Despite what you may think, the rainforest isn't one habitat, but a variety of very different zones with different plants and animals in each one. Many of the trees are extremely tall, which means that the level of sunlight, water and wind are different at the top to the bottom.

Forest Floor

Very little sunlight reaches the forest floor in the middle of the rainforest. Typically, less than 2% of sunlight ever reaches this far down. Because of this, plants that grow here have evolved with very broad leaves to make the most of what sunlight there is. Plants and trees tend to have shallow roots to make it easier to absorb the nutrients from the soil. The air here is very hot and humid; they are the perfect conditions for fungi and insects that depend on decomposing wood and leaf litter. These insects are called detritivores and include millipedes, termites, leaf beetles and leaf-cutter ants. Giant anteaters, bird-eating spiders and big cats also call the forest floor home.

Different species of big cat also live on the forest floor. Tigers inhabit Asian rainforests whereas jaguars prowl the rainforests of the Amazon looking for prey.

Understory

In the understory, sunlight falls in speckled spots as it filters through the leaves above. Some rain reaches this part of the rainforest, making it especially hot and humid. Smaller
