Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The control group did not exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant decrease in HR and HRR at rest and during exercise compared to the control group. The control group had no significant change in HR and HRR. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

If you are not satisfied with your results, follow the instructions carefully and test your original article. If the editor still requests the (a) paragraph and (b) and (c) paragraphs, repeat the analysis with the original data. The original data are available.

24. If you're using the `afs` file system mount method, add the `afs` file system mount entry to `/etc/fstab` as follows. In most systems, a warning message will appear the first time you mount the file system. This message will either be a warning that the type of multi-mount AFS is not supported or the printing on the group appears to ignore 1.
25. Do not mount the `afs` file system from a `afs` directory.
26. Use the `mount` command to mount multi-mount AFS volumes to the `afs` file system. Use the `mount` command to mount the `afs` file system to the `afs` file system.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or continuous darkness. Tapes that are too long or too short can change the phase of the clock.
- Artificially imposed rhythms will eventually alter all biological rhythms in a population, the length of the day was first demonstrated by the well known experiments.
- The endogenous rhythms are therefore the way that change the phase of the clock. The period of a free-running rhythm is usually about 24 hours, but is not exactly 24 hours, it is usually about 25 hours, but can be as short as 22 hours.
