Labour Mobility in the Asia-Pacific Region Graeme Hugo,Soogil Young,2008 Driven by demographic changes and reinforced by intensifying globalization international labour mobility has been on the rise in recent decades in the Asia Pacific region It seems that after trade and investment labour mobility constitutes the final frontier for regional integration among the Asia Pacific economies There is no doubt that labour movements are integral to regional economic integration and critical to the long term health of the regional economies and business operations In reality however such movements are much burdened with political and social problems in the labour origin economies as well as the labour destination economies and yet many of these problems remain not just unaddressed by the relevant governments but not even well studied The present volume seeks to fill this gap by offering synthesis papers stemming from the studies on international labour migration in twenty Asia Pacific economies which were discussed at a joint PECC ABAC conference held in Seoul Korea on 25 26 March 2008 organized by KOPEC These papers examine the demographic transition the associated pattern of international labour migration the national policies associated with it as well as their implications for business and the issues they raise and finally the implications of these analyses for cooperation among the APEC governments for each of the four subregions in the Asia Pacific as well as for the whole region OECD Journal on Development, 2008

The Internationalisation Strategies of Small-country Firms Howard Dick, David Merrett, 2007-01-01 This research project combines contemporary and historical analysis to trace the evolution of Australian multinationals It provides unique insights into how firms from a small economy achieved global competitiveness in their niche markets while examining the barriers that inhibited others The evidence is presented in comparative industry and firm case studies and tells the story of international business made in Australia The longitudinal and multi level analysis in this research provides new insights that challenge the predominance of cross sectional analytical framework dominating strategic management Any scholars sincerely interested how companies from small countries can succeed on the global stage ought to read this book Klaus E Meyer University of Reading Business School UK The international business literature often struggles to depict a universal experience of internationalisation from the perspective of large countries This book seeks to enrich the literature by providing a nuanced overview of the little known Australian experience being an atypical case of a small to medium sized economy which liberalised rapidly from the 1980s outside any trading bloc Six data rich survey chapters explore Australia's mixed success in founding its own multinationals The experience of Australian firms is set in historical and comparative perspective including interactions with inward and specifically American FDI Five industry studies next consider why firms in retail wine and professional services were more successful than in financial services and shipping Nine detailed case studies of firms then identify the elements of administrative heritage strategy and learning that have been the key to success or failure The book concludes by outlining what can be learned from Australia's example and presenting implications for future research The Internationalisation Strategies of Small Country Firms will appeal to scholars researchers and postgraduate students in international business and international economics Australia's
