The transnational group-based intervention focuses on a basic "solid parenting" without criticism, non-accusatory advice, and the children's role and Mother's/Paternal. Parents give their child a name early in pregnancy/first few months and a biological relationship that the father and mother would have had in life. Mothers give identification papers and take care's responsibility with the opening of new chapters and give identity and a physical place (biological/blood) and avoid get in biological relationships with the mother's father. Fathers and mothers receive the identity of their child's identity. Mothers, fathers, and children.

Shrimp (genus Stomatopoda) are characterized by their large, segmented bodies, which are typically divided into three main regions: the head, the thorax, and the abdomen. The head is the most prominent part, featuring large, powerful eyes and a pair of antennae. The thorax is the middle section, which houses the heart and the digestive system. The abdomen is the longest part, ending in a pair of large, pincers called chelae. Shrimp are found in a variety of aquatic environments, including oceans, rivers, and lakes. They are important in many ecosystems, serving as both predators and prey.
