1. The cell body contains the nucleus and other organelles. What is the major function of the cell body?

The cell body is responsible for the synthesis and distribution of organelles and the production of energy. It is the site of the nucleus, which contains the genetic material (DNA) and is the control center of the cell.

2. The axon carries the nerve impulse away from the cell body. What is its function?

The axon is responsible for the transmission of the nerve impulse (action potential) away from the cell body to the axon terminals. It is a long, thin projection of the cell body that is covered by a myelin sheath.
