The Rose Field Sansita Pradeep,2025-04-19 Love hate friendship and heartbreak are all facts of life best concealed in metaphors If I pluck out each rose from the field they will all have a story to tell The field is in my imagination but the roses are as real as the sun Why would you ever live in reality when you can escape to a beach with gloomy skies a vast rose field and a thriving forest Poetry is escapism Poetry is cathartic

Slings and Arrows Stan Erisman,2021-03-31 Readers would perhaps be justified in thinking that Slings and Arrows the fourth book in the Hindsight series should be given a warning text regarding its emotionally wrenching content This is that warning Having overcome the many obstacles to settling down in Sweden Stan and Jeanette achieve at least temporarily the free and simple life they'd been seeking Stan enters the most intensive and productive period in his painting by far with Jeanette's strong moral support and urging But once again external circumstances threaten their equilibrium Stan's dad dies suddenly and Stan's draft orders are cancelled almost simultaneously their first trip back to the US a year later confirms their conviction that Sweden is their new home just months later Jeanette's dad's death and horrifying funeral confirm their rejection of religion but seem to launch Jeanette's growing obsession with death and they are forced to find new living quarters An exciting project to turn a derelict building into a home with great potential consumes most of their time and resources for two years during which Stan has no time to paint and Jeanette's condition worsens perceptibly only through hindsight With the end of the enormous restoration project in sight Jeanette's unforeseen suicide destroys every trace of Stan's hope and meaning

A Primer of Handling the Negative Therapeutic Reaction Jeffrey Seinfeld,2002 In a negative therapeutic reaction the progress of treatment triggers a particular destructive dynamic in the patient Initially therapists considered it to be a result of the patient's pathology but contemporary clinicians recognize that the therapist may significantly contribute to this process Object relations clinicians see the individual as a social being that develops in relation to others whom the individual internalizes as good and bad objects Jeffrey Seinfeld explores how an internal sabotaging self is identified with a rejecting object This self is a reservoir of memories of how original caregivers rejected the child's needs and the patient now expects the world to reject and disappoint her If patients experience the therapist as a kind or caring person they may feel that they are being lured into dependency and subsequent disappointment Paradoxically if patients feel attached to the therapist this same attachment is experienced as a threatening dependency that must be destroyed A relationship that could eventually strengthen the personality is rejected and instead a negative reaction to the therapist and the therapeutic process is established Jeffrey Seinfeld shows that in order for patients to heal they must separate from the internal bad objects This is often done with aggression against the therapist who must be able to withstand the intense hostility rage and abuse of the patient Only by surviving this aggression in the negative therapeutic reaction can the therapist allow the patient to integrate good and bad part objects in the transference The therapist can eventually serve as a bridge in the integration of the divided good and bad selves and objects Through case histories Seinfeld illustrates his way of entering into the patient's internal world By helping patients understand the transference of their internal objects they begin to understand their own experience of self and others which leads to character change
