Physical Science Paper 1 2014 November:

What We Think About When We Try Not To Think About Global Warming Per Espen Stoknes, 2015 Today about 98 percent of scientists affirm that climate change is human made and about 2 percent still question it Despite that overwhelming majority though about half the population of rich countries like ours choose to believe the 2 percent And paradoxically this large camp of deniers grows even larger as more and more alarming proof of climate change has cropped up over the last decades This disconnect has both climate scientists and activists scratching their heads growing anxious and responding usually by repeating more facts to win the argument But the more climate facts pile up the greater the resistance to them grows and the harder it becomes to enact measures to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and prepare communities for the inevitable change ahead Is humanity up to the task It is a catch 22 that starts says psychologist and climate expert Per Espen Stoknes from an inadequate understanding of the way most humans think act and live in the world around them With dozens of examples he shows how to retell the story of climate change and apply communication strategies more fit for the task Publisher s description Handbook of the Politics of the Arctic Leif Christian Jensen, Geir Hønneland, 2015-09-25 The Arctic has again become one of the leading issues on the international foreign policy agenda in a manner unseen since the Cold War Drawing on the perspectives of geo politics and international law this Handbook offers fresh insights and perspectives on the most pressing issues grouped under the headings of political ascendancy climate and environmental issues resources and energy and the response and policies of affected countries Optimizing the U.S. Ground-Based Optical and Infrared Astronomy System National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Physics and Astronomy, Committee on a Strategy to Optimize the U.S. Optical and Infrared System in the Era of the Large Synoptic Survey Telescope (LSST), 2015-06-26 New astronomical facilities such as the under construction Large Synoptic Survey Telescope and planned 30 meter class telescopes and new instrumentation on existing optical and infrared OIR telescopes hold the promise of groundbreaking research and discovery How can we extract the best science from these and other astronomical facilities in an era of potentially flat federal budgets for both the facilities and the research grants Optimizing the U S Ground Based Optical and Infrared Astronomy System provides guidance for these new programs that align with the scientific priorities and the conclusions and recommendations of two National Research Council NRC decadal surveys New Worlds New Horizons for Astronomy and Astrophysics and Vision and Voyages for Planetary Sciences in the Decade 2013 2022 as well as other NRC reports This report describes a vision for a U S OIR System that includes a telescope time exchange designed to enhance science return by broadening access to capabilities for a diverse community an ongoing planning process to identify and construct next generation capabilities to realize decadal science priorities and near term critical coordination planning and instrumentation needed to usher in the era of LSST and giant telescopes The World's Search for Sustainable Development Mukul Sanwal, 2015-11-05 This text traces the evolution of sustainable development and climate change from the time it emerged in international consultations and agreements The three sections of the book focusing on the framework climate change and sustainable development seek to cover the essentials of the politics of natural resource usage at the global level The book explores the evolution of sustainable development and climate change within the framework of the United Nations and the way the concept has been defined through intergovernmental meetings agreements and consensus within the multilateral system It also explores the best ways of reducing the risk to the planet while enabling societies to pursue sustainable development paths The challenges call for a transformation of social systems to facilitate a broadly acceptable change The book also explores the adoption of low carbon models different from the high carbon socio technical systems and related social practices SOUVENIR of 3rd

Planning, Development and Management of Sustainable Cities Tan Yigitcanlar, Md. (Liton) Kamruzzaman, 2019-04-30 The concept of sustainable urban development has been pushed to the forefront of policymaking and politics as the world wakes up to the impacts of climate change and the destructive effects of the Anthropocene Climate change has emerged to be one of the biggest challenges faced by our planet today threatening both built and natural systems with long term consequences which may be irreversible While there is a vast body of literature on sustainability and sustainable urban development there is currently limited focus on how to cohesively bring together the vital issues of the planning development and management of sustainable cities Moreover it has been widely stated that current practices and lifestyles cannot continue if we are to leave a healthy living planet to not only the next generation but also to the generations beyond The current global school strikes for climate action known as Fridays for Future evidences this The book advocates the view that the focus needs to rest on ways in which our cities and industries can become green enough to avoid urban ecocide This book fills a gap in the literature by bringing together issues related to the planning development and management of cities and focusing on a triple bottom line approach to sustainability
