Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and a training group. The control group consisted of 10 men who did not exercise regularly, and the training group consisted of 10 men who participated in a 12-week training program. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise before and after the training program. The results showed that the HR and HRR of the training group increased significantly after the 12-week training program, while the HR and HRR of the control group remained unchanged. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or natural light at night. To reduce the risk of these problems, the Institute of Medicine (IOM) has issued the following recommendations:
 - Avoid excessive exposure to artificial light at night.
 - Use light that is dimmer than the light used during the day.
 - Use light that is warmer in color (red, orange, yellow, or blue) than the light used during the day.
 - Use light that is less than 100 lux (foot-candles) at the point of use.
 - Use light that is less than 100 lux (foot-candles) at the point of use.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 combinations for One Connection) will void the warranty. Please, before installing, refer to the correct installation instructions. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in a variety of problems with the product.

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will increase its output level until the marginal revenue product of the input is equal to the input price. This is the profit-maximizing output level.
