Matyka, 2012 There has been a lot of research on factors that help to explain why some start ups become successful and their founders rich and on the other hand why other start ups fail terribly Of course starting up an enterprise is a complex activity dependent on institutional regulations competitors market developments and the simple recognition of the right opportunities at the right time We know all of this but still cannot accurately predict our chances of being successful as entrepreneur There are some methods venture capitalists use such as evaluating start up teams and studying business plans However even after doing this the chance of making a correct prediction is still lower than throwing a coin Research has never been able to explain much of this complexity but there are at least three factors that have repeatedly turned up when determining success and failure in the last few years The first of these factors is a result of our tremendous technological development in the past few decades but particularly in the most recent In nearly all young enterprises the utilization of social media and social networks has become a vital factor for survival and success Many research results over the last few years have yielded the conclusion that social media are by far the most important platform for marketing products and services To put this more scientifically the diffusion of innovation is increasingly interlinked with social media In addition the recognition and creation of opportunities also increasingly requires social media platforms However this does not mean one should operate only online investing all of his time and energy to communicating in social networks The second factor concerns something that is quite obvious money Since the vast majority of start ups do not have their own money or the ability to easily get a loan obtaining financial resources is often a major problem There are different ways to raise some money One can ask friends or family or seek investors Semantics and Psychology of Spirituality Heinz Streib, Ralph W. Hood, Jr., 2015-10-16 This book examines what people mean when they say they are spiritual It looks at the semantics of spirituality the visibility of reasons for spiritual preference in biographies in psychological dispositions in cultural differences between Germany and the US and in gender differences It also examines the kind of biographical consequences that are associated with spirituality The book reports the results of an online questionnaire filled out by 773 respondents in Germany and 1113 in the US personal interviews with a selected group of more than 100 persons and an experiment Based on the data collected it reports results that are relevant for a number of scientific and practical disciplines It makes a contribution to the semantics of everyday religious language and to the cross cultural study of religion and to many related fields as well because spirituality is evaluated in relation to personality mysticism well being religious styles generativity attachment biography and atheism The book draws attention to the new and ever changing ways in which people give names to their ultimate concern and symbolize their experiences of transcendence
