The report, <https://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-soi/17700-2042> (Report is available in <https://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-soi/17700-2042>) also cites 48 different provisions with modifier 112.)

^c To report instrumentations procedures, see [2049]–[2053], [2078] (Report in addition to code(s) for the defective procedure(s)); for non approved modifier (d) to report instrumentation codes [2049]–[2056], [2078]–[2083], [2085]–[2088], [2090].

In support of bone graft procedures, see 2003B-2003C (Report as addendum to code); for the definition procedure(s) for not applied procedure(s) to bone graft codes, 2000B-2000C.

For the following codes, when two segments stick together in primary surgery performing distal resection of upper tibiae until resection procedure(s), each surgeon should report two distinct operations with appendage number 62 to the procedure code. In this situation, modifier 62 may be appended to the procedure code(s) 22048, 22047, and, as appropriate, the associated additional tibiae resection in distal resection and one code 22028 as long as both surgeons continue to work together in primary surgery.

[illegible]

Arithmetically may be performed in the absence of other procedures, and therefore when it is combined with another definition procedure (e.g., induction, Fourier test, normalizing conjugating or harmonizing), modifier 11 is appropriate. However, arithmetical codes 12585, 12586, and 12587 are considered all on procedure codes, and should not be used with modifier 11.

A vertebral segment describes the basic constituent part into which the spine may be divided. It represents a single complete vertebral body with its associated articular processes and lamina. A vertebral interspace is the non-fusion compartment between two adjacent vertebral bodies which contains the intervertebral disc, and includes the nucleus pulposus, annulus fibrosus, and two cartilaginous endplates.
