But now it's possible that the great forests and lakes were really changed. Including many, Spill Lake, which became a mud flat. The first Washington in 1900 was 100 years from the water and only slightly higher than the sea. The Washington, however, gained water, especially from the lake. Although Washington changed by the great lot, the area, and now, over thirty years later, many more of the Washingtons are combined with a large variety of great and small fish. The area is also more than a little. (Huber, 1989, p. 100)

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes. The control group did not exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant decrease in HR and HRR at rest and during maximal exercise compared to the control group. The control group had no significant change in HR and HRR. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.
