Neuron Structure of the Brain, Engl G. I. Poljakov, 1972 Neuron Structure-function Correspondence as Revealed by Biological Scaling Theory Paheli Desai-Chowdhry, 2023 Neurons are connected by complex branching processes that collectively process information for organisms to respond to their environment Classifying neurons according to differences in structure or function is a fundamental piece of neuroscience Here by constructing new biophysical theory and testing against our empirical measures of branching structure we establish a correspondence between neuron structure and function as mediated by principles such as time or power minimization for information processing as well as spatial constraints for forming connections Based on these principles we use Lagrange multipliers to predict scaling ratios for axon and dendrite sizes across branching levels We test our predictions for radius scale factors against those extracted from images measured for species that range from insects to whales Notably our findings reveal that the branching of axons and peripheral nervous system neurons is mainly determined by time minimization while dendritic branching is mainly determined by power minimization Further comparison of different dendritic cell types reveals that Purkinje cell dendrite branching is constrained by material costs while motoneuron dendrite branching is constrained by conduction time delay We extend this model to incorporate asymmetric branching where there are multiple different paths from the soma to the synapses and thus multiple interpretations of conduction time delay one considers the optimal path and the other considers the sum of all possible paths leading to different predictions We find that the data for motoneurons show a distinction between the asymmetric and symmetric branching junctions corresponding to predictions using different interpretations of the time delay constraint Moreover the more asymmetric branching junctions are localized near the synapses indicating that different functional principles affect the structure at different regions of the cell Finally we use machine learning methods to classify cell types using functionally relevant structural parameters derived from our model Incorporating branching level as a feature in classification in addition to parameters related to information flow improves performance across methods suggesting that information flow drives localized differences in morphology Future directions of this work include estimating specific parameters related to functional tradeoffs and myelination using numerical optimization and analyzing changes across stages of development

Baptista, 2021-02-09 The Generalized Vertebrate Neuron David Bodian, 1962 Mind at Rest Maryam Shahzad, 2024-02-16 Exploring the Brain's Intricacies An Introduction to Neuron Structure and Sleep An astonishingly sophisticated organ the human brain is responsible for a plethora of life sustaining processes A network of neurons the basic units responsible for information transmission within the brain is at the core of its activities Neuronal architecture is a key to understanding many cognitive and physiological processes including sleep the most mysterious human experience Building Blocks of Neurons The Brain's Architectural Mysteries A nervous system's principal functional unit is a neuron also called a nerve cell The brain is an enormous network that enables the transmission of impulses at lightning speed it is composed of billions of these complex cells Multiple parts all of which are essential to the neuron's operation make up a normal neuron The cell body often called the soma is the nucleus of the neuron It is home to the cell's genetic material and regulatory center the nucleus It is the job of the cell body to process incoming signals and determine if an electrical impulse should be transmitted The dendrites are the parts of a neuron that extend outward from the cell body and receive impulses sent by neighboring neurons These complex networks enhance the amount of surface area that may be used for synaptic connections which are the building blocks of neuronal communication Molecular structure and functional activity of nerve cells
