Persian Literary Devices: Eight Essays Alireza Korangy, Pounesh Shabani-Jadidi, 2024-09-24 This volume offers a glimpse into the rich tradition of literary devices in Persian language and literature It establishes an incontrovertible connection between literary devices figurative language rhetoric and so on and pedagogy and poetics in both written and oral expression The essays offer a detailed and thorough overview of some of these literary devices and their dynamics which have helped make the Persian literary tradition a force to reckon with The essays also carve out a space dedicated to colloquialisms and idioms as they are interwoven into the fabric of Persian culture within the larger field of rhetoric These devices are fostered and furthered in their potency both culturally and linguistically by the poets writers and rhetoricians who utilize them The essays highlight a culture and history in texts and oral history that further speak to a culturally tailored complexity as per figurative language idioms colloquialisms and therhetoric they help found and or re define These discussions and analyses further facilitate an understanding of the epistemological and cultural meaning of some of the constituents of what is otherwise a Persian identity This work is a must have for scholars and students of Persian Arabic Ottoman and Urdu literature not to mention Middle Eastern history and cultural poetics enthusiasts

The Romantic Fragment Poem Marjorie Levinson, 2017-11-01 The fragment poem, long regarded as a peculiarly Romantic phenomenon, has never been examined outside the context of thematic and biographical criticism. By submitting the unfinished poems of the English Romantics to both a genetic investigation and a reception study, Marjorie Levinson defines the fragment's formal character at various moments in its historical career. She suggests that the formal determinancy of these works, hence their expressive or semantic affinities, is a function of historical conditions and projections. The English Romantic fragment poems share not so much a particular mode of production as a myth of production. Levinson pries apart these two dimensions and analyzes each independently to consider their relationship. By reconstructing the contemporary reception of such works as Wordsworth's Nutting, Coleridge's Christabel, and Shelley's Julian and Maddalo, and Keats's Hyperion fragments, and juxtaposing this model against dominant twentieth-century critical paradigms, Levinson discriminates layers, phases, and kinds of intentionality in the poems and considers the ideological implications of this diversity. This study is the first to investigate the English Romantic fragment poem by identifying the assumptions, contemporary and belated, that govern interpretative procedures. In a substantial summary chapter, Levinson reflects upon the meaning and effects of these assumptions with respect to the facts and fictions of literary production in the period and to the processes of canon formation.
