It is argued that the use of guidelines of evidence-based management approaches such as MBAS and the associated underlying business objectives is important to the success of the implementation of the MBAS. However, the MBAS is not a one-size-fits-all solution. The MBAS is a management tool that is designed to be used in a way that is appropriate to the needs of the organization. Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness of 12-year-old children. The study was conducted in a school setting. The children were divided into two groups: an experimental group and a control group. The experimental group performed the program, while the control group did not. Physical fitness was measured using a series of tests: 1000-m run, 20-m shuttle run, sit and reach, and push-ups. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly higher scores than the control group in all four tests. The 1000-m run and 20-m shuttle run tests showed a significant difference between the groups, while the sit and reach and push-ups tests showed a significant difference between the groups. The results suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness of 12-year-old children.

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The first session was a warm-up, the second was a cardiovascular workout, and the third was a strength training session. The results showed that the participants experienced significant improvements in their cardiovascular fitness, strength, and overall health. The study also found that the participants experienced a decrease in their body mass index (BMI) and a decrease in their blood pressure. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can be an effective way to improve the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men.
