Reflection Papers

What is it?

A reflection is a paper where you are asked to write your own ideas and thoughts about something. Often reflections are written to enable the writer to give serious thought or consideration to a past experience, but they can also be assigned as a reflection to a text.

What is the purpose?

The purpose for writing reflective papers is to help students improve on their analytical skills because in order to write an effective reflection, students have to not only express what they think, but how and why.

Can I get it wrong?

Reflections have no right or wrong answers and they do not argue ideas since they are based on personal experience. Therefore, the main component of a reflection should be an analysis of observations, experiences, and opinions from your own point of view. Ensure you have answered every part of the prompt from your instructor and provide plenty of details as a reflection is generally a deep analysis.

Steps to Writing a Reflection Paper

1. Narrow down a topic if one has not been provided for you by your instructor. A reflection requires a deep analysis, so narrow down the topic.
2. Brainstorm what you will say about the topic.
3. Make an outline to organize your thoughts.
4. Write your paper. Make sure to include an introduction that ends with a thesis.
5. Expand on your ideas in the body paragraphs. If your opinion changed, your body paragraphs can walk your reader through how the change occurred. A common way to format this is chronologically. The amount of body paragraphs will be determined by the requirements from your instructor.
6. End with a conclusion that wraps everything up for your reader. In the conclusion, you may also want to include how this experience will affect you moving forward.

The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices
