QUESTION — I have a question about the following passage from Hamlet (Act 1, Scene 2):

Hamlet: "O that my father had but those good friends that I have seen go out before him. They were his friends that still loved him, who are not yet out of their hearts. They were his friends that still loved him, who are not yet out of their hearts. They were his friends that still loved him, who are not yet out of their hearts."

ANSWER — The passage is a soliloquy by Hamlet, who is expressing his grief over the death of his father. He is lamenting that his father's friends are no longer with him, and that he is left alone to mourn. The passage is a powerful expression of Hamlet's inner turmoil and his sense of loss.
