

Q1) The self as defined by the SCA glossary is the social self that is the product of social interactions and not the biological preconditions. In the context of the passage the people that participated in the authors ethnographic fieldwork expressed how their views of themselves, when it came to their body image, had been affected by the people in their lives. There are two specific examples in the passage, the example of Margaret and John.

Q2) The concept of social relations is the relationship between two or more individuals. Social relations will often times have an element of individual agency as well as group expectations. The ethnographic data presented in the passage in the form of John and Margaret shows us how social relations and more specifically, in this context, group expectations can affect a person. Margaret talks about how her struggles with her body began after her brother started criticizing her weight. The idea that a thin body was what you needed for a good life continued to plague Margaret throughout her life due to society saying that excessive weight was bad. John's struggle with his body and weight started after a doctor told him that he was just over the borderline. This struggle with his body and weight continues due to his roommates, who are all athletic, who criticise his eating habits. Both these examples showcase how social relations can affect the self and how group expectations play a part in it. The expectation to be thin, sustained by society and the people around us can have effects on the self as shown in the ethnographic data.

Q3) The key concept of belief and knowledge is the set of values, convictions, and viewpoints that are regarded as the truth by a shared group of people, these viewpoints and values will often times be supported and upheld by known cultural experience. In the passage and the ethnography Pretty Modern the belief that happiness comes from being thin is shared by the Brazilian people and the people presented in the passage. A clear example of this thinking from the passage is with the example of Margaret who had internalized societies message. Society's message was that for girls a thin and beautiful body was the source of happiness while an ugly and fat body was the source of sadness and suffering. Margaret also reflects on how body image plays a large role in attracting the opposite gender. This idea is also reflected in Pretty Modern. Many of the woman that Edmonds interviewed meant that in order to attract a member of the opposite gender they needed to be thin and beautiful.

In Pretty Modern there is the belief that one mayor way to achieve a thin and beautiful body is with the help of plastic surgery. With the help of plastic surgery and more specifically a surgery that tucks in the stomach or liposuction, depending on what you need, can be used to achieve a more "desired" physique. While from the passage there are more talks of dieting and exercise in order to achieve a thinner body. This difference could be due to the fact that the students that are used as examples in the passage are from a study done by a teacher at the university of California. The west and more specifically the US's, while having a lot of plastic surgery patient's, views towards plastic surgery are different than those in Brazil. In Brazil plastic surgery is viewed as a solution to a lot of problems that would have different solutions, such as being considered "to fat". In the US dieting and exercise is seen as an obvious solution in one's journey of becoming thinner while in Brazil plastic surgery might be seen as the better answer to a problem.

Heath,2021-03-23 Focusing on India between the early nineteenth century and the First World War Colonial Terror explores the centrality of the torture of Indian bodies to the law preserving violence of colonial rule and some of the ways in which extraordinary violence was embedded in the ordinary operation of colonial states Although enacted largely by Indians on Indian bodies particularly by subaltern members of the police the book argues that torture was facilitated systematized and ultimately sanctioned by first the East India Company and then the Raj because it benefitted the colonial regime since rendering the police a source of terror played a key role in the construction and maintenance of state sovereignty Drawing upon the work of both Giorgio Agamben and Michel Foucault Colonial Terror contends furthermore that it is only possible to understand the terrorizing nature of the colonial police in India by viewing colonial India as a regime of exception in which two different forms of exceptionality were in operation one wrought through the exclusion of particular groups or segments of the Indian population from the law and the other by petty sovereigns in their enactment of illegal violence in the operation of the law It was in such fertile ground in which colonial subjects were both included within the domain of colonial law while also being abandoned by it that torture was able to flourish

Out of War Mariane C. Ferme,2018-08-10 Out of War draws on Mariane C Ferme s three decades of ethnographic engagements to examine the physical and psychological aftereffects of the harms of Sierra Leone s civil war Ferme analyzes the relationship between violence trauma and the political imagination focusing on war times the different qualities of temporality arising from war She considers the persistence of precolonial and colonial figures of sovereignty re elaborated in the context of war and the circulation of rumors and neologisms that freeze in time collective anxieties linked to particular phases of the conflict or chronotopes Beyond the expected traumas of war Ferme explores the breaks in the intergenerational transmission of farming and hunting techniques and the lethal effects of remembering experienced traumas and forgetting local knowledge In the context of massive population displacements and humanitarian interventions this ethnography traces strategies of survival and material dwelling and the juridical creation of new figures of victimhood where colonial and postcolonial legacies are reinscribed in neoliberal projects of decentralization and individuation

Knowing al-Qaeda Christina Hellmich, 2016-04-22 Despite a plethora of studies devoted to it the current understanding of al Qaeda and the threat it poses remains vague and ambiguous Is al Qaeda a rigidly structured organisation a global network of semi independent cells a franchise or simply an ideology What role did Osama bin Laden play within the group and its terrorist campaign What does it mean to talk about the global Salafi jihad threat allegedly confronting the West In addressing such questions many writers have sought to offer definitive answers yet overall the truth about al Qaeda remains elusive This book moves beyond this traditional approach in order to investigate and critically assess how such answers reflect the particular epistemological frameworks within which they are produced Its chapters explore the varied contexts within which the obscure entity labelled al Qaeda is constituted as a comprehensible object of political strategic cultural and scientific knowledge and within which terrorism is rendered an experience of quotidian life This volume offers a much needed critical reflection on Western ways of talking and of thinking about the frightening experience of global terrorism In trying to know how we know al Qaeda it offers us an opportunity to try to know ourselves and our often hidden assumptions about legitimacy violence and political purpose

Broadcasting in the UK and US in the 1950s Jamie Medhurst, Siân Nicholas, Thomas O'Malley, 2016-05-11 In an age of digital communications where radio satellite television and computing have come together to allow instant access to information and entertainment from around the globe it is sometimes easy to overstate the break with the recent past that these developments imply However from a historical perspective it is important to recognise that the national dimensions of communications including broadcasting have always been framed within different sets of international political economic cultural and technological relationships Television so easily seen as the last technology to succumb to the effects of internationalisation subsequent to the technical and political changes of the late twentieth century was in fact from the outset embedded in international interactions In recent years a focus has been placed on the longstanding sets of transnational relationships in place in the years after World War II when television established itself as the dominant form of mass communication in Europe and America Recent research has adopted a comparative approach to television history which has examined the interactions within Europe and between Europe and America from the 1950s onwards In addition there has been increasing interest in the idea of television in the Anglophone world looking at transatlantic interactions from the early phases of the development of the technology through the growing market for formats in the 1950s and outwards to connections with Australia and Hong Kong in these years The essays in this collection contribute to this area by bringing together in one volume work which focuses on both national developments in UK and US broadcasting in the 1950s to allow for reflection on how those systems were developing and being understood within those societies and raise issues about the ways in which the two systems interacted and can be usefully compared Some contributions deliberately focus on international issues while others embed the international dimension within them and still others offer a critical commentary on developments during the 1950s The book will appeal primarily to students and researchers in media and communication studies television studies radio studies and history but will also be of interest to all who have an interest in developments in communication in the post war period Cambridge University Guide to Courses, 2003 Out of the Margin Susan Feiner, Edith Kuiper, Notburga Ott, Jolande Sap, Zafiris Tzannatos, 2005-07-22 Out of the Margin is the first volume to consider feminist concerns across the entire domain of economics The book addresses the philosophical roots of rational economic man power relations and conflicts of interest within the family the limitations of relying on secondary data and the policy implications of neo classical models With its range and depth of coverage this is not only an excellent introduction to the field but also indispensable for those seeking more in depth knowledge of issues of gender and economics Anthropology U.C.L.A., 1981
