Disturbing Conventions Rachel V Harrison, 2014-04-15 Disturbing Conventions draws the study of Thai literature out of the relative isolation that has to date impeded its participation in the wider field of comparative and world literature Predominantly penned by Thai academics the collection decentres Thai literary studies in order to move beyond the traditionalist conservative concerns of the academy which have until relatively recently foreclosed the use of Western theory in the study of Thai literature The book introduces new frames of analysis to the study of Thai literature to bring it into dialogue with debates in wider fields and the world beyond its national borders As a result Disturbing Conventions offers an essential contribution to the comparative study of world literature and Asian cultural studies

Pedro Almodóvar Pedro Almodóvar, 2004 A collection of interviews that documents the 22 year long cinematic career of the most internationally celebrated Spanish art film director since Luis Buñuel

Disturbing the Universe Roberta S. Trites, 1998-04-01 The Young Adult novel is ordinarily characterized as a coming of age story in which the narrative revolves around the individual growth and maturation of a character but Roberta Trites expands this notion by chronicling the dynamics of power and repression that weave their way through YA books Characters in these novels must learn to negotiate the levels of power that exist in the myriad social institutions within which they function including family church government and school

Novel Medicine Andrew Schonebaum, 2016-04-01 By examining the dynamic interplay between discourses of fiction and medicine Novel Medicine demonstrates how fiction incorporated created and disseminated medical knowledge in China beginning in the sixteenth century Critical readings of fictional and medical texts provide a counterpoint to prevailing narratives that focus only on the literati aspects of the novel showing that these texts were not merely read but were used by a wide variety of readers for a range of purposes The intersection of knowledge fictional and real elite and vernacular illuminates the history of reading and daily life and challenges us to rethink the nature of Chinese literature

Desire and Domestic Fiction Nancy Armstrong, 1987-05-07 Desire and Domestic Fiction argues that far from being removed from historical events novels by writers from Richardson to Woolf were themselves agents of the rise of the middle class Drawing on texts that range from 18th century female conduct books and contract theory to modern psychoanalytic case histories and theories of reading Armstrong shows that the emergence of a particular form of female subjectivity capable of reigning over the household paved the way for the establishment of institutions which today are accepted centers of political power Neither passive subjects nor embattled rebels the middle class women who were authors and subjects of the major tradition of British fiction were among the forgers of a new form of power that worked in and through their writing to replace prevailing notions of identity with a gender determined subjectivity She also examines the works of such novelists as Richardson Jane Austen and the Brontës to reveal the ways in which these authors rewrite the domestic practices and sexual relations of the past to create the historical context through which modern institutional power would seem not only natural but also humane and therefore to be desired

The Lure of the Modern Shumei Shi, 2001-04-20 Quite apart from her contributions as a literary critic Shu mei Shih is able to historicize literary developments of the period most persuasively Her analysis of Shanghai the city and the literary movement it spawned is crafted with great sensitivity to both history and literature In many ways it is the most inclusive historical study of modern Chinese literature in its formative period Prasenjit Duara author of Rescuing History from the Nation Tracing the spectral production of Chinese identity as it is disseminated globally Shih boldly moves away from using place ethnicity and the body race to anchor Chinese identity to argue that the visual film and the verbal language and linguistics are the most salient ones in the modern and contemporary historical formation She succeeds brilliantly David Palumbo Liu author of Asian American Historical Crossings of a Racial Frontier This is the most thoroughly researched study of Chinese modernism published to date The author's theoretical interventions greatly enrich our understanding of colonial modernity and the stakes of comparison in cross cultural studies The book is a major contribution to modern Chinese literary studies and comparative literature Lydia Liu editor of Tokens of Exchange

Look, a Negro! Robert Gooding-Williams, 2013-11-26 In Look a Negro political theorist Robert Gooding Williams imaginatively and impressively unpacks fundamental questions around race and racism Inspired by Frantz Fanon's famous description of the profound effect of being singled out by a white child with the words Look a Negro his book is an insightful rich and unusually wide ranging work of social criticism These essays engage themes that have dominated debates on race and racial identity in recent years the workings of racial ideology including the interplay of gender and sexuality in the articulation of racial ideology the viability of social constructionist theories of race the significance of Afrocentrism and multiculturalism for democracy the place of black identity in the imagination and articulation of America's inheritance of philosophy and the conceptualization of African American politics in post segregation America Look a Negro will be of interest to philosophers political theorists critical race theorists students of cultural studies and film and readers concerned with the continuing importance of race consciousness to democratic culture in the United States
