Shades Of Grey Deutsch:

German Film after Germany Randall Halle, 2010-10-01 What is the work of film in the age of transnational production To answer that question Randall Halle focuses on the film industry of Germany one of Europe's largest film markets and one of the world's largest film producing nations In the 1990s Germany experienced an extreme transition from a state subsidized mode of film production that was free of anxious concerns about profit and audience entertainment to a mode dominated by private interest and big capital At the same time the European Union began actively drawing together the national markets of Germany and other European nations subsuming their individual significances into a synergistic whole This book studies these changes broadly but also focuses on the transformations in their particular national context It balances film politics and film aesthetics tracing transformations in financing along with analyses of particular films to describe the effects on the film object itself Halle concludes that we witness currently the emergence of a new transnational aesthetic a fundamental shift in cultural production with ramifications for communal identifications state cohesion and national economies

Jewish Histories of the Holocaust Norman J.W. Goda, 2014-09-01 For many years histories of the Holocaust focused on its perpetrators and only recently have more scholars begun to consider in detail the experiences of victims and survivors as well as the documents they left behind This volume contains new research from internationally established scholars It provides an introduction to and overview of Jewish narratives of the Holocaust The essays include new considerations of sources ranging from diaries and oral testimony to the hidden Oyneg Shabbes archive of the Warsaw Ghetto arguments regarding Jewish narratives and how they fit into the larger fields of Holocaust and Genocide studies and new assessments of Jewish responses to mass murder ranging from ghetto leadership to resistance and memory

Screening War Paul Cooke, Marc Silberman, 2010 Re-examines German cinema's representation of the Germans as victims during the Second World War and its aftermath The recent discovery of German wartime suffering has had a particularly profound impact in German visual culture Films from Margarethe von Trotta's Rosenstrasse 2003 to Oliver Hirschbiegel's Oscar nominated Downfall 2004 and the two part television mini series Dresden 2006 have shown how ordinary Germans suffered during and after the war Such films have been presented by critics as treating a topic that had been taboo for German filmmakers However the representation of wartime suffering has a long tradition on the German screen For decades filmmakers have recontextualized images of Germans as victims to engage shifting social and ideological discourses By focusing on this process the present volume explores how the changing representation of Germans as victims has shaped the ways in which both of the postwar German states and the now unified nation have attempted to face the trauma of the past and to construct a contemporary place for themselves in the world Contributors See n Allan Tim Bergfelder Daniela Berghahn Erica Carter David Clarke John E Davidson Sabine Hake Jennifer Kapczynski Manuel Kppen Rachel Palfreyman Brad Prager Johannes von Moltke Paul Cooke is Professor of German Cultural Studies at the University of Leeds and Marc Silberman is Professor of German at the University of Wisconsin
