Shadows At Sunset:

Shadows at Sunset Anne Stuart, 2008-11-01      Shadows at Sunset Gladys P. Clark, 1986      Celestial Shadows John Westfall, William Sheehan, 2014-11-19 Much of what is known about the universe came from the study of celestial shadows. This book looks in detail at the way eclipses and other celestial shadows have given us amazing insights into the nature of the objects in our solar system and how they are even helping us discover and analyze planets that orbit stars other than our Sun. A variety of eclipses, transits, and occultations of the moons of Jupiter and Saturn, Pluto and its satellite Charon, asteroids, and stars have helped astronomers to work out their dimensions, structures, and shapes, even the existence of atmospheres and structures of exoplanets. Long before Columbus set out to reach the Far East by sailing West, the curved shadow of the Earth on the Moon during a lunar eclipse revealed that we inhabit a round world, a globe. More recently, comparisons of the sunlit and Earthlit parts of the Moon have been used to determine changes in the Earth's brightness as a way of monitoring possible effects in cloud coverage which may be related to global warming. Shadows were used by the Greek mathematician Eratosthenes to work out the first estimate of the circumference of the Earth, by Galileo to measure the heights of the lunar mountains, and by eighteenth century astronomers to determine the scale of the Solar System itself. Some of the rarest and most wonderful shadows of all are those cast onto Earth by the lovely Evening Star, Venus, as it goes between the Earth and the Sun. These majestic transits of Venus occur at most two in a century; after the 2012 transit, there is not a chance to observe this phenomenon until 2117, while the more common sweep of a total solar eclipse creates one of the most dramatic and awe-inspiring events of nature. Though it may have once been a source of consternation or dread, solar eclipses now lead thousands of amateur astronomers and eclipse chasers to travel the globe in order to experience the dramatic view under totality. These phenomena are among the most spectacular available to observers and are given their full due in Westfall and Sheehan's comprehensive study.      Sunsets, Twilights, and Evening Skies Aden Meinel, Marjorie Meinel, 1991-01-25 Explains what causes color variations in sunsets, tells how volcanic eruptions can change the sun's light, and discusses comets, meteors, city lights, and the aurora borealis.      Revised Needle and Hook Belding Bros. & Co., 1898      Nature for Its Own Sake John C. The poet's fifth collection, published two years after she won the 1918 Pulitzer Prize, is a masterful collection of lyric poems meditating on life death and the natural world Somber and celebratory symbolic and grounded in experience Flame and Shadow revels in the mystery of existence itself What do I care in the dreams and the languor of spring That my songs do not show me at all Content to depict the rhythms of nature the songs of birds and the silver light after a storm Teasdale's poetry dissolves the poet's ego in order to access a deeper well of creative energy For my mind is proud and strong enough to be silent It is my heart that makes my songs not I In There Will Come Soft Rains a poem born from a decade of war and widespread disease Teasdale imagines a posthuman world where beauty and harmony continue despite our disappearance Robins will wear their feathery fire Whistling their whims on a low fence wire And not one will know of the war For Teasdale a poet who merges an abiding affection for flora and fauna with a critical distance from human affairs the belief in the life of the world with or without us is enough With a beautifully designed cover and professionally typeset manuscript this edition of Sara Teasdale's Flame and Shadow is a classic work of American poetry reimagined for modern readers The Nineteenth Century and After, 1895 The Twentieth Century, 1895 The Nineteenth Century, 1895 The Desert John Charles Van Dyke, 1909 The Desert John C.
