A Kiss of Steel and Shadows Elara von Schwarza, The morning mist clung to the cobblestones of Valenhall like ghostly fingers reluctant to release their grip on the ancient city Seraphina Blackthorne pulled her woolen cloak tighter around her shoulders as she navigated the narrow alleyways toward her forge The weight of her leather satchel heavy with tools and unfinished projects reminded her of the work that awaited her in the dim hours before dawn At nineteen Seraphina had already earned a reputation that most smiths twice her age would envy Her delicate hands scarred from years of working with fire and metal could craft blades that sang with an otherworldly resonance The nobles of Valenhall whispered that her steel held magic though Seraphina herself remained skeptical of such claims She knew only the rhythm of hammer against anvil the dance of flame and iron and the satisfaction of creating something beautiful and deadly from raw materials The forge stood at the end of Ember Lane a modest stone building that had belonged to her father before his untimely death three years prior The familiar scent of coal and metal shavings greeted her as she unlocked the heavy oak door Inside the forge waited like a sleeping dragon its cold hearth ready to roar back to life at her command Seraphina had barely begun stoking the coals when a shadow fell across her doorway She looked up to find a figure silhouetted against the pale morning light tall and imposing despite the casual way he leaned against her doorframe The stranger wore a dark traveling cloak that seemed to absorb the light around it and when he stepped forward into her workshop she caught her first glimpse of his face

The Cinema and Its Shadow Alice Maurice, 2013-03-15

The Cinema and Its Shadow argues that race has defined the cinematic apparatus since the earliest motion pictures especially at times of technological transition In particular this work explores how racial difference became central to the resolving of cinematic problems the stationary camera narrative form realism the synchronization of image and sound and perhaps most fundamentally the immaterial image the cinema's shadow which figures both the material reality of the screen image and its racist past Discussing early race subjects Alice Maurice demonstrates that these films influenced cinematic narrative in lasting ways by helping to determine the relation between stillness and motion spectacle and narrative drive The book examines how motion picture technology related to race embodiment and authenticity at specific junctures in cinema's development including the advent of narrative feature films and sound In close readings of such films as The Cheat Shadows and Hallelujah Maurice reveals how the rhetoric of race repeatedly embodies film technology endowing it with a powerful mix of authenticity and magic In this way the racialized subject became the perfect medium for showing off shoring up and reintroducing the cinematic apparatus at various points in the history of American film Moving beyond analyzing race in purely thematic or ideological terms Maurice traces how it shaped the formal and technological means of the cinema
