Untying the Knot Galit Hasan-Rokem, David Shulman, 1996-11-28 This book collects eighteen previously unpublished essays on the riddle a genre of discourse found in virtually every human culture Hasan Rokem and Shulman have drawn these essays from a variety of cultural perspectives and disciplines linguists anthropologists folklorists and religion and literature scholars consider riddling practices in Hebrew Finnish Indian languages Chinese and classical Greek The authors seek to understand the peculiar expressive power of the riddle and the cultural logic of its particular uses they scrutinize the riddle s logical structure and linguistic strategies as well as its affinity to neighboring genres such as enigmas puzzles oracular prophecy proverbs and dreams In this way they begin to answer how riddles relate to the conceptual structures of a particular culture and how they come to represent a culture's cosmology or cognitive map of the world. More importantly, these essays reveal the human need for symbolic ordering, riddles being one such form of cultural ritual. 50 Problem-solving Lessons Marilyn Burns, 1996. The world lies devastated after the massive oil crisis that was described in LAST LIGHT. Human society has more or less entirely broken down, and millions lie dead of starvation and disease. There are only one or two beacon communities that have managed to fashion a new way of living. Jenny Sutherland runs one of these groups. Based on a series of decaying offshore oil rigs, for safety a few hundred people have rebuilt a semblance of normality in this otherwise dead world. But as her and her people start to explore their surroundings, once again they start to realise not every survivor has the same vision of a better future than their catastrophic past. There are people out there who would take everything they have. War is coming, and the stakes are truly massive.

The Riddle Andrew Razeghi, 2008-01-07. While organizations claim to value creativity, they are often at a loss when attempting to conjure up novel ideas, particularly in a world where technology has made information readily available to everyone. As a result, leaders ask, "Where will the next big idea come from?" In response, they allocate significant resources for innovation; however, the source of creative inspiration has remained a mystery. Science has shown that it's possible to create conditions under which the mind is more prepared to have insights or "aha" moments. In this fascinating book, Andrew Razeghi examines the precursors to creative insight and offers clear-cut methods for making Eureka moments routine practice rather than lucky accidents. Combining the latest scientific research, interviews with current innovators, and studies of history's most creative minds, he dissects the creative process and presents a practical approach for inspiring innovation. Orature and Yoruba Riddles

A. Akinyemi, 2016-02-09. Orature and Yoruba Riddles takes readers into the hitherto unexplored undercurrents of riddles in Africa. Because of its oral and all too often ephemeral nature, riddles have escaped close scrutiny from scholars. The strength of the Yoruba as the focus of this study is impressive; indeed, a major ethnic group in Africa with established connections with the black diaspora in North America and the Caribbean, a rich oral and written culture, a large and diverse population, and an integrated rural-urban society. The book is divided into six chapters for readers' convenience. When read in sequence, the book provides a comprehensive holistic sense of Yoruba creativity where riddles are concerned. At the same time, the book is conceived in a way that each chapter could be read individually. Therefore, those readers seeking understanding of a specific type of riddle may target a single chapter appearing most relevant to their curiosity. A Semiotic Landscape.
