Obesity Prevention Laurette Dube,2010-06-25 Over the years approaches to obesity prevention and treatment have gone from focusing on genetic and other biological factors to exploring a diversity of diets and individual behavior modification interventions anchored primarily in the power of the mind to the recent shift focusing on societal interventions to design temptation proof physical social and economic environments In spite of repeated calls to action including those of the World Health Organization WHO the pandemic continues to progress WHO recently projected that if the current lifestyle trend in young and adult populations around the world persist by 2012 in countries like the USA health care costs may amount to as much as 17.7% of the GDP Most importantly in large part due to the problems of obesity those children may be the first generation ever to have a shorter life expectancy than that of their parents Obesity Prevention presents the most current research and proposals for addressing the pandemic Past studies have focused primarily on either genetic or behavioral causes for obesity however today s research indicates that a strongly integrated program is the best prospect for success in overcoming obesity Furthermore focus on the role of society in establishing an affordable accessible and sustainable program for implementing these lifestyle changes is vital particularly for those in economically challenged situations who are ultimately at the highest risk for obesity Using studies from both neuroscience and behavioral science to present a comprehensive overview of the challenges and possible solutions The brain to society approach to obesity prevention focuses on what is needed in order to sustain a healthy pleasurable and affordable lifestyle Explores the brain to society approach to obesity prevention focusing on an integrative approach to addressing the obesity pandemic Presents both the neuroscientific and the behavioral factors that impact eating habits Identifies the challenges and suggests solutions for altering attitudes toward food on both an individual and a societal level Reducing Racial/Ethnic Disparities in Reproductive and Perinatal Outcomes Arden Handler,Joan Kennelly,Nadine Peacock,2010-11-23 Among women s health concerns reproductive issues both prenatal and postpartum hold particular prominence Yet despite the many programs dedicated to improving women s reproductive health maternal and infant morbidity and mortality rates in minority communities remain unchanged or have increased Confronting this alarming statistic head on Reducing Racial Ethnic Disparities in Reproductive and Perinatal

Outcomes is the first book systematically examining public health interventions designed toward meeting this important and elusive goal. Its contributors offer the best thinking and practice on this complicated topic, clarifying the relationship between evidence-based medicine and evidence-based public health and its potential for increasing parity, considering interventions in the multiple contexts of women's lives, reviewing the evidence base for each program or initiative featured, and describing methodologies for evaluating interventions. The resulting volume advocates for an integrative lifespan approach, including topics related to family planning, STI and HIV/AIDS screening and treatment, smoking cessation, and reducing exposure to environmental smoke. Preconceptional well woman care, depression screening and treatment, labor delivery approaches, and intrapartum care. Emerging prenatal care interventions from centering pregnancy to doula support. For professionals and graduate students in psychiatry, psychology, sociology, women's health, and public health. Reducing Racial/Ethnic Disparities in Reproductive and Perinatal Outcomes reframes a set of ongoing issues and guides the reader toward state-of-the-art solutions.

WIC Program, 2006. Domestic Food Assistance Kay Brown, 2010-11. The federal government spends billions of dollars every year on domestic food assistance (FA) programs. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture administers most of these programs and monitors the prevalence of food insecurity, that is, the percentage of U.S. households that were unable to afford enough food sometime during the year. Other federal agencies also fund FA programs, however, comprehensive and consolidated information on the multiple programs is not readily available. This report examines: 1) the prevalence of food insecurity in the U.S.; 2) spending on FA programs; 3) what is known about the effectiveness of these programs in meeting program goals; and 4) the implications of providing FA through multiple programs and agencies. Effects of Food Assistance and Nutrition Programs on Nutrition and Health Mary Kay Fox, William L. Hamilton, Bing-Hwan Lin, 2004. Food Assistance, 1989.

Abstract. This report provides information on the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's USDA handling of the National WIC Evaluation and its current plans for a follow-on study of WIC's impact on children. The report discusses the problems USDA encountered in performing the National WIC Evaluation, which added to its cost and delayed its issuance. The reason USDA cancelled a follow-up study of WIC's effects on children and the status of USDA's plans for a redesigned study of children. It also includes factors USDA may want to consider in planning and conducting future evaluations in order to produce less costly, more timely results.
