Harinder S. Ghuman, Richard M. Sarles, 2013-06-17 In the past few years there has been a major shift in the mental health care of child and adolescents from inpatient care to non hospital community ambulatory settings Economic pressures have primarily driven this change in service delivery Insurance companies and managed care organizations have not only restricted access to hospitalization and limited length of stays but additionally have sharply reduced reimbursements for treatments State and federal policies for inpatient treatment and reimbursement have followed similar trends As a result mental health planners have attempted to develop programs to deal with this trend of restricted inpatient care shifting treatment of children and adolescents to home and community settings Some of these new programs are well planned and others are hastily planned and implemented The pitfall to this community approach is that there is a population of chronically disturbed children and adolescents and highly stressed parents often lacking adequate personal and family resource who may not respond to these new less restrictive less costly community approaches which potentially may lead to an unsafe and dangerous situation for the child adolescent family and the community With this in mind the purpose of this book is to provide comprehensive and up to date information regarding child and adolescent outpatient day treatment and community psychiatry The emphasis of this book is to provide practical knowledge through clinical case illustrations and to explain various strategies in a detailed fashion

Literacy, Media, Technology Becky Parry, Cathy Burnett, Guy Merchant, 2016-12-01 Literacy Media Technology considers the continued significance of popular culture forms such as postcards film television games virtual worlds and social media for educators Following multiple pathways through technological innovation the contributors reflect on the way in which digital and portable devices lead to new and emerging forms of reading participating and creating Rejecting linear conceptualisations of progression they explore how time is not linear as technological advances are experienced in multiple ways linked to different personal social political and economic trajectories The contributors describe a range of practices from formal and informal education spaces and interrogate some of the continuities and discontinuities associated with literacy media and technology at a time when rapidly evolving communicative practices often meet intransigence in educational systems The chapters adopt diverse forms historical perspectives personal story and reflection project reports document analysis critical reviews of resources ethnographic accounts and analyses of meaning making within and beyond educational institutions Together they provide multiple insights into the diverse and fluid relationships between literacy media technology and everyday life and the many ways in which these relationships are significant to educational research and practice

Termination Challenges in Child Psychotherapy Eliana Gil, David A. Crenshaw, 2015-10-02 Ending therapy in an appropriate and meaningful way is especially important in work with children and adolescents yet the topic is often overlooked in clinical training From leading child clinicians this much needed book examines the termination process both for brief and longer term encounters and offers practical guidance illustrated with vivid case material Tools are provided for helping children and families understand termination and work through associated feelings of loss and grief Challenges in creating positive endings to therapy with children who have experienced trauma and adversity are given particular attention Several reproducible forms can be downloaded and printed from the companion website in a convenient 8 1/2 x 11 size The companion website also features nine full color figures

Teaching the Arts in the Primary Curriculum Susan Ogier, Suzy Tutchell, 2021-05-12 Learning in the arts does not fit in with simple conventional methodologies for teaching and assessing in the traditional sense but it has an immense power to transform children's understanding of the world around them and their lives. Many jobs currently and of the future will demand the skills that learning in the arts will develop. This book brings Arts Education sharply into focus as a meaningful learning experience for children of pre school and primary age 3-11 years. It reinforces the potential for the wide range of physical, mental and emotional development through learning opportunities that engagement in arts practice facilitates. Provides insight into how teachers can support children to consider contemporary challenges that face their generation. Includes expert voices from the world of education to demonstrate an expansive and perhaps surprising view of where and how the Arts can be found. Shows how we can bring the arts so easily into our curriculum and into our classrooms. Sat Attack

Documentation and Reimbursement for Speech-Language Pathologists Nancy Swigert, 2024-06-01 Although it is the least noticed by patients, effective documentation is one of the most critical skills that speech language pathologists must learn. With that in mind, Documentation and Reimbursement for Speech Language Pathologists: Principles and Practice provides a comprehensive guide to documentation, coding and reimbursement across all work settings. The text begins with section 1 covering the importance of documentation and the basic rules, both ethical and legal, followed by an exploration of the various documentation forms and formats. Also included are tips on how to use electronic health records as well as different coding systems for diagnosis and for procedures, with an emphasis on the link between coding, reimbursement and the documentation to support reimbursement. Section 2 explains the importance of focusing on function in patient-centered care with the ICF as the conceptual model, then goes on to cover each of the types of services speech language pathologists provide: evaluation, treatment planning, therapy and discharge planning. Multiple examples of forms and formats are given for each. In section 3, Nancy Swigert and her expert team of contributors dedicate each chapter to a work setting in which speech language pathologists might work, whether adult or pediatric, because each setting has its own set of documentation and reimbursement challenges. And since client documentation is not the only kind of writing done by speech language pathologists, a separate chapter on other professional writing includes information on how to write correspondence, avoid common mistakes and even prepare effective PowerPoint presentations. Each chapter in Documentation and Reimbursement for Speech Language Pathologists: Principles and Practice contains activities to apply information learned in that chapter as well as review questions for students to test their knowledge. Customizable samples of many types of forms and reports are also available. Included with the text are online supplemental materials for faculty use in the classroom. Documentation and Reimbursement for Speech Language Pathologists: Principles and Practice is the perfect text for speech language pathology students to learn these vital skills, but it will also provide clinical supervisors, new clinicians and speech language pathologists starting a private practice or managing a department with essential information about documentation, coding and reimbursement.

Courtroom and Report Writing Skills for Social Workers Clare Seymour, Richard Seymour, 2011-07-07 This new text will build on Courtroom Skills for Social Workers by updating the legal and research content and strengthening the material on recording. There will also be additional contributions from service users and more practice examples so as to make the book interesting and relevant for qualified social workers. It will assist social workers in meeting their CPD requirements for continuing registration and also offer a framework for short in-service training courses on court skills and recording both areas in which social workers' performance comes under the scrutiny of other professionals.
