and promote peace This edited volume considers the intersections between tourism peace justice and sustainability through conceptual and empirical works surveying practices problems and challenges all around the globe It presents a complex and critical approach arguing that peace through tourism is dialogic and not as simple as describing a few good niche segments of tourism The pedagogies of peace represented here work to analyse structural violence associated with tourism such as in the dominance of neoliberal market imperatives over local or social economies colonising patriarchal and anthropocentric practices in tourism and tourism s complex role in post conflict settings Analyses found here place scholars industry and communities in conversation about building shared tourism futures where peace is understood as peace with justice and differences are bridged through dialogues towards understanding In light of the many challenges in attaining sustainable development in the 21st century this volume is an important and timely endeavour Radical practices are explored that support more just tourism futures With a new introduction this book is an insightful resource for scholars and researchers of Tourism and Peace and Conflict Studies The chapters in this book were originally published in Journal of Sustainable Tourism Destination Image - Do Berlin's tourist authorities have to consider cultural segmentation when developing marketing strategies relating to the place's image in an era that refers to the global tourist? Wassim El Kadhi, 2008-10-13 Inhaltsangabe Abstract Destination image is considered as the key in attracting tourists This thesis purported to scrutinise whether Berlin s tourist authorities have to consider cultural segmentation when developing marketing strategies relating to the place s image As an exploratory study it examined Berlin s image among youths from Arab Islamic and Protestant European countries and confronted them In an era that is subjected to globalisation and refers to the global tourist it is vindicated to pose this question Various scholars are convinced that the world tourism market may be treated as a homogenous one due to globalisation However the literature also provides some opposing bearings and discusses them It further gives some background information on Berlin as a tourist destination addresses destination image concerning influential cultural factors and the implications of globalisation on consumer behaviour Finally it studies the Arab Islamic and Protestant European youth cultures in the light of globalisation and possible modifying effects In response to the objectives of this study primary research was conducted It involved both quantitative and qualitative data collection methods Field and online surveys enabled the researcher to collect 239 completed questionnaires 103 Arab Islamic and 136 Protestant European youths Besides semi structured interviews and focus group discussions were carried out at EF Language School Bournemouth Following the completion of the survey obtained data was entered into SPSS Frequencies and means were calculated for each variable and several ANOVA tests and cross tabulations conducted in order to stress destination image s specificity in terms of cultural background Research findings revealed significant differences between the groups regarding their perception of Berlin Arab Islamic youths had a more negative stance towards Berlin than their counterparts Not only did divergences occur between the groups but also within the groups Thus destination image is culture specific and may also vary across countries sharing similar cultural backgrounds Overall despite the effects of globalisation cultural market segmentation still remains a vital element for a tourist place such as Berlin where the image management is concerned The thesis provides recommendations for Berlin congruent with the outcomes and concludes with the provision of recommendations for further Frameworks for Tourism Research Douglas G. Pearce, 2012-01-01 Frameworks are the foundation of good scholarship They structure organize and communicate research underpin individual studies and shape the field of study as a whole This book introduces students to the concept of frameworks in tourism research and provides a review discussion and critique of frameworks Theoretical conceptual analytical and integrative frameworks are all covered in detail with the features use strengths and limitations of each from discussed and illustrated using a wide range of examples and applications across the field of tourism studies It is suitable for acade
