Assignment Description:

The purpose of your final essay is to develop an articulate, persuasive argument about an issue of social, political, environmental, scientific, or historical significance that is interesting — and pertaining — to you. You will apply critical thought and research skills in support of your argument to substantiate any and all claims made, providing all necessary contextual information and background. You must, in short, prove to the audience that you actually know what you are writing about, that you know your subject, as you proceed to take, explain, and defend the position you have put forth. The final essay has three main components:

- Thesis

Your thesis should open the paper and introduce the main claim you are making as your argument. The thesis is crucial because it serves as the foundation on which you will build the rest of your paper. A strong thesis is one that has a strong, articulate, and well-developed claim. Your paper's claim should be the most concise formulation of your argument that you can muster — the no-frills version of the case you are making. It should very clearly make a case and argue a point. This can be difficult though, and you must strike a balance between hyper-specificity and vagueness. You will be able to flesh your arguments out in the argument's body paragraphs, so you shouldn't go into extreme detail, but should also avoid vague, directionless language.

In providing this concise, not-too-specific and not-too-vague statement of your argument, you also provide a quick summary of the scope of your paper, the ground it will cover. You must also identify your target audience—who you are directly arguing to, and so trying to persuade—in the thesis. Refer back to the Prezi on thesis and body paragraphs posted on Schoology (link:

- Research and Supporting Paragraphs

Refer to your notes from class lectures and from the book about developing supporting paragraphs. There are many ways to write and structure the paragraphs that will support the thesis, but here is a general overview of supporting (body) paragraphs from OWL MLA that you can refer to if you find it helpful:

Keep one idea to one paragraph. If you begin to transition into a new idea, it belongs in a new paragraph. There are some simple ways to tell if you are on the same topic or a new one. You can have one idea and several bits of supporting evidence within a single paragraph. You can also have several points in a single paragraph as long as they relate to the overall topic of the paragraph. If the single points start to get long, then perhaps elaborating on each of them and placing them in their own paragraphs is the route to go.

Keep in mind the general structure of arranging support for your thesis:

- Cibim: The overall thesis for which the writer will make an argument.
