Wallace, 2001 Ecocriticism a field of study that has expanded dramatically over the past decade has nevertheless remained until recently closely focused on critical analyses of nature writing and literature of wilderness The authors push well beyond that established framework with this collection of essays by respected ecocritics and scholars from the literary and environmental arenas Mimesis and Alterity Michael Taussig, 2018-05-30 In this ambitious and accomplished work Taussig explores the complex and interwoven concepts of mimesis the practice of imitation and alterity the opposition of Self and Other The book moves from the nineteenth century invention of mimetically capacious machines such as the camera to the fable of colonial first contact and the alleged mimetic power of primitives Twenty years after the original publication Taussig revisits the work in a new preface which contextualises the impact of Mimesis and Alterity Drawing on the ideas of Benjamin Adorno and Horckheimer and ethnographic accounts of the Cuna Taussig demonstrates how the history of mimesis is deeply tied to colonialism and the idea of alterity has become increasingly unstable Vigorous and unorthodox this cross cultural discussion continues to deepen our understanding of the relationship between ethnography racism and society Kafka and I and I Franz Kafka, Paula Kohlmann, Luke Haskett, 2011 Kafka's Zoopoetics Naama Harel, 2020-05-04 Nonhuman figures are ubiquitous in the work of Franz Kafka from his early stories down to his very last one Despite their prominence throughout his oeuvre Kafka's animal representations have been considered first and foremost as mere allegories of intrahuman matters In recent years the allegorization of Kafka's animals has been poetically dismissed by Kafka's commentators and politically rejected by posthumanist scholars Such critique however has yet to inspire either an overarching or an interdiscursive account This book aims to fill this lacuna Positioning animal stories as a distinct and significant corpus within Kafka's entire poetics and closely examining them in dialogue with both literary and posthumanist analysis Kafka's Zoopoetics critically revisits animality interspecies relations and the very human animal contradistinction in the writings of Franz Kafka Kafka's animals typically stand at the threshold between humanity and animality fusing together human and nonhuman features Among his liminal creatures we find a human transformed into vermin in The Metamorphosis an ape turned into a human being in A Report to an Academy talking jackals in Jackals and Arabs a philosophical dog in Researches of a Dog a contemplative mole like creature in The Burrow and indiscernible beings in Josefine the Singer or the Mouse People Depicting species boundaries as mutable and obscure Kafka creates a fluid human animal space which can be described as humanimal The constitution of a humanimal space radically undermines the stark barrier between human and other animals dictated by the anthropocentric paradigm Through denying animalistic elements in humans and disavowing the agency of nonhuman animals excluding them from social life and neutralizing compassion for them this barrier has been designed to regularize both humanity and animality The contextualization of Kafka's animals within posthumanist theory engenders a post anthropocentric arena which is simultaneously both imagined and very real

Loopholes John Bruns,2017-07-05 Much writing about comedy in the last twenty years has only trivialized comedy as cheap or as temporary distraction from things that really matter It has either presented exhaustive taxonomies of kinds of humor like wit puns jokes humor satire irony or engaged in pointless political endgames moral dialogues or philosophical perceptions Comedy is rarely presented as a mode of thought in its own right as a way of understanding not something to be understood Bruns guiding assumption is that comedy is not simply a literary or theatrical genre to be differentiated from tragedy or from romance but a certain way of disclosing perhaps undoing the way the world is organized When we view the world in terms of what is incompatible we are reading comically In this sense comedy exists outside the alternatives of tragic and comic Loopholes argues that trivialization of comedy comes from fear that it will address our anxieties with honesty and it is this truth that scares us John Bruns discusses comedy as a mode of thought with a cognitive function It is a domain of human understanding a domain far more troubling and accessible than we care to acknowledge To read comically we must accept our fears If we do so we will realize what Bruns refers to as the most neglected premise of comedy that the world itself is a loophole both incomplete and limitless

Kafka's Jewish Languages David Suchoff, 2011-11-29 After Franz Kafka died in 1924 his novels and short stories were published in ways that downplayed both their author's roots in Prague and his engagement with Jewish tradition and language so as to secure their place in the German literary canon Now nearly a century after Kafka began to create his fictions Germany Israel and the Czech Republic lay claim to his legacy Kafka's Jewish Languages brings Kafka's stature as a specifically Jewish writer into focus David Suchoff explores the Yiddish and modern Hebrew that inspired Kafka's vision of tradition Citing the Jewish sources crucial to the development of Kafka's style the book demonstrates the intimate relationship between the author's Jewish modes of expression and the larger literary significance of his works Suchoff shows how The Judgment evokes Yiddish as a language of comic curse and examines how Yiddish African American and culturally Zionist voices appear in the unfinished novel Amerika In his reading of The Trial Suchoff highlights the black humor Kafka learned from the Yiddish theater and he interprets The Castle in light of Kafka's involvement with the renewal of the Hebrew language Finally he uncovers the Yiddish and Hebrew meanings behind Kafka's Josephine the Singer or the Mouse Folk and considers the recent legal case in Tel Aviv over the possession of Kafka's missing manuscripts as a parable of the transnational meanings of his writing

Strong Opinions Chris Danta, Sue Kossew, Julian Murphet, 2011-07-14 This new collection of essays on Coetzee examines how his novels create and unsettle literary authority Its unique contribution is to show how Coetzee provokes us into reconsidering certain basic formal and existential questions such as the nature of literary realism the authority of the author and the constitution of the human self in a posthumanist setting by consciously revealing the literary theoretical seams of his work Strong Opinions makes the innovative claim that Coetzee's work is driven not by a sense of scepticism or nihilism but rather by a form of controlled exposure that defines the literary The essays in the volume variously draw attention to three of Coetzee's most recent and significant experiments in controlled exposure The first is the exposure of place Coetzee's decision to set his novels in his newly adopted country of Australia The second is the exposure of form Coetzee's direct almost essayistic address of literary philosophical topics within his novels And the third is the exposure of limits Coetzee's explicit deconstruction of the traditional limits of human life
