Responses to Rising Atmospheric CO₂: Implications for Plants, Soil Biota, and Ecosystem Processes P. S. Curtis,G. O'Neill,James A. Teeri,Donald R. Zak,Kurt S. Pregitzer,2013-04-17 As atmospheric CO₂ increases there will almost certainly be alterations in soil carbon fluxes It is likely that such alterations will be accompanied by changes in the partitioning of carbon between organic structures and to soil processes These changes have the potential for further altering the structure and function of terrestrial ecosystems While there has been increasing recognition of the importance of soil mediated responses to global climate change the nature and magnitude of these responses are not well understood In an effort to expand our assessment of the significance of belowground responses to rising atmospheric CO₂ a workshop has been organized that resulted in the peer reviewed contributions that are contained in this volume
