What do Casanova Pope Pius XI Benjamin Franklin and first lady Laura Bush have in common At one time all were members of the librarian profession While librarians are often stereotyped as quiet shy ladies who wear their gray hair in a dignified bun that doesn't reflect the variety and diversity of today's library professionals As of 2004 159 000 people in the United States held the job of librarian Although only 18 percent of that number was male the median age for librarians was a young 47 far from the gray haired bun wearing ladies of our imaginations From pick up lines to bumper stickers this volume takes a light hearted look at the many facets of the librarian occupation Beginning with statistics it enumerates gender divisions personality types salaries and educational requirements for various types of librarians including public academic school and special librarians Other topics include specific occupational health risks job related recreation and novelty gifts for library professionals Instances of librarians found in prose poetry film and musicals are also discussed The Design of Sites

Technology Assessment of Automation Trends in the Modular Home Industry Philip H. Mitchell,2009 This report provides an assessment of technology used in manufacturing modular homes in the United States and that used in the German prefabricated wooden home industry. It is the first step toward identifying the research needs in automation and manufacturing methods that will facilitate mass customization in the home manufacturing industry. Within the United States, a relatively low level of technology was found in domestic modular home manufacturers. Raw material transportation was mostly manual; manually operated saws sized raw materials; cranes were used to move subassemblies; and modules were pushed by hand or with a battery-powered pusher. German prefabricated home manufacturers used closed panels to construct walls, roofs, and floors rather than modular construction. Three levels of automation were identified: manual, semi-automated, and fully automated. Manual production methods were similar to those found in the United States. In semi-automated factories, automated machinery was used, but an operator was required to manually load, unload, and start the machine. The fully automated factories had equipment capable of machining and transferring panel components and placing and fastening components together. Such investment in automation is risky in the cyclic housing industry. The modular factory has elevated homebuilding from a craft to mass production, but flexibility is reduced, and significant customization is difficult. Future research should examine the cost effectiveness of using high levels of automation, software, and equipment in the U.S. homebuilding industry and whether it can profitably provide the manufacturing flexibility for mass customization. Alternatively, the use of lean manufacturing in modular home factories to realize the same benefits needs to be examined.
