Gender and Power in the Plays of Harold Pinter Victor L. Cahn,2011-12-20 During the past century artists have been preoccupied with the search for meaning in a fragmented world In this book Victor L Cahn suggests that the plays of Harold Pinter dramatize how such a search leads characters to try to establish security through control of territory and people. The resulting conflict often manifests itself in a gender battle in which men dominate the physical arena and women the emotional. The innate tension between the sexes is both comic and unnerving but also reflects humanity's eternal quest for meaning and identity.

The British Barbershopper Liz Garnett, 2017-07-05 Barbershop singing is a distinctive and under-documented facet of Britain's musical landscape. Imported from the USA in the 1960s, it has developed into an active and highly organized musical community characterized by strong social support structures and a proselytizing passion for its particular style. This style is defined within the community in largely music-theoretical terms and is both highly prescriptive and continually contested, but there is also a host of performance traditions that articulate barbershop's identity as a distinct and specific genre. Liz Garnett documents and analyses the social and musical practices of this specialized community of music makers and extends this analysis to theorize the relationship between music and self-identity. The book engages with a range of sociological and musicological theoretical frameworks in order to explore the role of harmony, ritual, sexual politics, performance styles, and tag singing in barbershop. This analysis shows how musical style and cultural discourses can be seen to interact in the formation of identity. Garnett provides the first in-depth scholarly insight into the British barbershop.
