Dr. Clark's Recipe Book Jacob S. Ammon, 1895 Carolingian Medical Knowledge and Practice, c.775-900 Claire Burridge, 2024-07-15 Carolingian Medical Knowledge and Practice explores the practicality and applicability of the medical recipes recorded in early medieval manuscripts. It takes an original dual approach to these overlooked and understudied texts by not only analysing their practical usability but by also re-evaluating these writings in the light of osteological evidence. Could those individuals with access to the manuscripts have used them in the context of therapy? And would they have wanted to do so? In asking these questions, this book unpacks longstanding assumptions about the intended purposes of medical texts, offering a new perspective on the relationship between medical knowledge and practice. The Book Of Women's Love

Carmen Caballero-Navas, 2014-07-10 First published in 2005. The first part of this book is an historical study of the Hebrew written production on women's healthcare and of Jewish women's lives and experiences regarding the care of their bodies during the late Middle Ages in the Mediterranean West. The aim is to restore value to feminine knowledge and practices that were significant then and remain so today. The second part presents an edition translated into English with commentary of the Hebrew compilation Sefer Ahavat Nashim, the Book of Women's Love. This was compiled in the late Middle Ages and is preserved in a single manuscript from Catalonia, Provence. Its contents are concerned with magic, sexuality, cosmetics, and gynecology, areas of knowledge essentially though not exclusively related to women. The author focuses on the relation between women and health care and examines both women's knowledge and knowledge about women. This pioneering work makes a valuable contribution to the history of Jewish culture and Jewish women during the Middle Ages and also makes a substantial contribution to the history of medicine.

Medicine and Healing in Ancient East Asia Constance A. Cook, 2023-09-28 This Element first discusses the creation of transmitted medical canons that are generally dated from early imperial times through the medieval era and then by way of contrast provides translations and analyses of non transmitted texts from the pre imperial late Shang and Zhou eras the early imperial Qin and Han eras and then a brief discussion covering the period through the 11th c CE The Element focuses on the evolution of concepts illness categories and diagnostic and treatment methodologies evident in the newly discovered material and reveals a side of medical practice not reflected in the canons It is both traditions of healing the canons and the currents of local practice revealed by these texts that influenced the development of East Asian medicine more broadly The local practices show there was no real evolution from magical to non magical medicine This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core
