B79 Elvis Union 76 Gold Card

The item listed above is an original artifact directly from the archive of the Estate of Elvis Presley at Graceland. Most of the artifacts in this auction have never been seen by the public until now. Because of the historical significance of these items, particularly documents, preventative preservation is of great importance. Below are several guidelines that will help insure the lifetime of your artifact and your investment:

- Currently, every document has been deacidified and placed in mylar, a stable substance made of polyethylene.
- Never use common household plastic as a protective covering. Plastics can be a catalyst for mold and emit damaging toxins.
- Refrain from exposure to sunlight or direct spot lighting. Keep lights off when not viewing.
- Temperature and humidity fluctuations must be avoided! Preferably artifacts should be stored or displayed at 68 degrees Fahrenheit ($\pm 5^\circ$) and 45% relative humidity ($\pm 5\%$).
- Avoid touching documents, fabrics, and metals since repeated exposure to the oils and dirt will eventually disintegrate your artifact. A pair of white gloves has been included to be worn should you decide to remove the document from its protective mylar and acid-free matting.
- Should any damage occur to your artifact, you should immediately consult with a museum professional before any restoration is made. There is a golden rule for artifact care - never do anything that cannot be undone, including using glues, tapes, paints, or any other permanent substance.
- Additionally, and most importantly, any damage or wear and tear currently visible on your artifact should not be corrected. That is part of its history, most likely incurred from use by Elvis Presley, his manager, Col. Tom Parker, and/or Vernon Presley.
