Some of the benefits that a Dental Hygienist will receive is health insurance and dental insurance. According to (Dentistry) 55% of dental hygienists are covered through a family members plan, which means they work at the dental office but are covered through a different plan, say you are covered through your significant others plan. 38% of dental hygienists are covered through their employer's plan, and 9% are uninsured. For dental insurance, 45% receive treatment at reduced costs at employers practice, 24% are covered by a family member's plan, 22% are uninsured, and 10% are covered by a plan provided by the employer. There are many risks that involve working in a dentist office and as a dental hygienist. Exposure to disease and infections is a risk that any dental profession needs to be aware of. Knowing the signs and symptoms of diseases, and not allowing any sick patients to sit in my chair unless they are in dental pain. Also, of course not to allow sick staff members come to work. Remember to always wash your hands frequently, 88% of disease is spread from hand-to-hand contact. Exposure to contaminants is also a risk, wearing proper personal protective equipment, including sharps and chemical-resistant utility gloves. Limit the use of chemicals, there are many areas in dentistry where we can limit the use of chemicals. There are a lot of perks of
