The comprehensive approach has been a new emerging phenomenon within the field of strategic studies national security and international defence Former NATO secretary general Rasmussen posited that this approach not only makes sense it is necessary Yet with the rise of asymmetric warfare and the emergence of new constructs the comprehensive approach is not supported by a necessary framework model or theory Indeed if the military alone is unable to solve the root cause of conflicts then other elements of national and international power must collaborate more closely In Synergy A Theoretical Model of Canadas Comprehensive Approach author senior lecturer and strategic management consultant Eric Dion proposes a theoretical model for this new approach How can such an integrated decision making model be constructed for the comprehensive approach Where and when who and with whom what how why and to what effect can such a model be employed Synergy answers these questions with an integrated theoretical model constructed of six management dimensions the situational context the sociocultural the organisational structure the strategic policies the systemic processes and the synergy dynamics Together these six dimensions fundamentally represent what would be the basic constructs for a more integrated theoretical model of the comprehensive approach Taking a strategic management perspective on the comprehensive approach can open new perspectives within the field of national security and defence a field traditionally dominated by political science and international relations In the end synergy appears to better explain the complex dynamics at play within the comprehensive approach Water Resources Policies in South Asia Anjal Prakash, Sreoshi Singh, C. Design Change to Fishery Independent Surveys: When to Adjust and How to Account For It Fabio Campanella,Ben Scoulding, Nathan Bacheler,Kyle Shertzer,2025-03-07 Fishery independent surveys provide crucial information for monitoring and assessing marine fish stocks Their utility can largely be attributed to sampling procedures that are consistent across space and time such that observed dynamics can reasonably be assumed to reflect those of the population or community being studied However sometimes changes to the survey design become desirable or necessary They may be desirable if the benefits of modification outweigh the benefits of consistency for example with improvements in sampling technology or efficiency revised survey priorities or increased funding that allows for greater spatial coverage or temporal resolution In other cases changes to the survey design may not be desirable but necessary for example when specific supplies or equipment become unobtainable or with reductions in funding ship time or human resources
