Gipe, 2012-11-12 Innovative and practical this text helps prepare teachers to support the literacy learning needs of all children in grades K-6 including academically, linguistically, and culturally diverse students. It features original teaching cases written by preservice teachers enrolled in field-based reading language arts methods courses accompanied by commentaries written by experienced teacher educators and skilled classroom teachers. High interest content and a reader-friendly format encourage critical and reflective thinking about topics important to effective literacy instruction. By promoting reflection about case issues, the text helps prepare future teachers to respond to teaching narratives presented on the practical applications section of the PRAXIS II examination required in most states for teacher licensure. The authentic cases candidly and poignantly describe preservice teachers' plans, problems, hopes, disappointments, dilemmas, and reflective thinking as they address the multilayered complexities and ambiguities associated with learning to teach reading and language arts in elementary classrooms. These teaching stories reveal glimpses of literacy instruction and allow us to enter real classrooms and experience the wide varieties of situations that reading language arts teachers encounter daily. Although the cases are grouped according to specific dimensions of literacy theory and pedagogy just as in real classrooms, other issues are woven through each case as well. The commentaries provide scholarly and sometimes contrasting perspectives and approaches through which readers might consider the issues presented in the cases. The commentaries represent only particular perspectives but readers are encouraged to explore and consider as many perspectives and issues as possible regarding each case. Each chapter includes helpful pedagogical features: New or critical concepts and terms listed at the beginning of each chapter alert readers to what might be unfamiliar vocabulary. Applications and Reflections pages help readers take an active part in analyzing, documenting, and talking about the particular issues portrayed in the case narratives. Using the questions on these pages, the cases and accompanying commentaries can be read and discussed as a whole class activity in small collaborative groups or by individuals. The questions can also be used by readers to guide their own case writing initiatives. Margin References direct readers to correlated readings for the strategies and parallel concepts mentioned in the cases and commentaries. Suggested readings can be discussed within the format of literacy study groups. Annotated Bibliographies at the end of each chapter help readers construct more in-depth knowledge for the instructional strategies and activities discussed in the teaching cases. The cases, commentaries, and pedagogical features in this distinctive text provide rich opportunities for readers to discover what they need to know and how they need to think in order to teach reading and language arts effectively and successfully. Handbook of Research on Lessons Learned From Transitioning to Virtual Classrooms During a Pandemic Thornburg, Amy W., Ceglie, Robert J., Abernathy, Dixie F., 2021-05-14 Online instruction is rapidly expanding the way administrators and educators think about and plan instruction. In addition, due to a pandemic, online instructional practices and learning in a virtual environment are being implemented with very little training.

or support Educators are learning new tools and strategies at a quick pace and often on their own even through resistance It is important to explore lessons learned through the pandemic but also of importance is sharing the virtual classroom options and instruction that align to best practices when transitioning to online instruction Sharing these will allow educators to understand and learn that virtual instruction can benefit all even when not used out of need and can enhance face to face courses in many ways The Handbook of Research on Lessons Learned From Transitioning to Virtual Classrooms During a Pandemic is a critical reference that presents lessons instructors have learned throughout the COVID 19 pandemic including what programs and tools were found to be the most impactful and useful and how to effectively embed virtual teaching into face to face teaching With difficult choices to be made and implemented this topic and collection of writings demonstrates the learning curve in a state of survival and also lessons and resources learned that will be useful when moving back to face to face instruction as a tool to continue to use Highlighted topics include the frustrations faced during the transition lessons learned from a variety of viewpoints resources found and used to support instruction online learner perspectives and thoughts online course content and best practices in transitioning to online instruction This book is ideal for teachers principals school leaders instructional designers curriculum developers higher education professors pre service teachers in service teachers practitioners researchers and anyone interested in developing more effective virtual and in classroom teaching methods

Resources in Education ,2001-04      Writing in the Social Studies Aaron Pribble,2021-04-01 Writing in the Social Studies is a practical guide for educators On each page are strategies tips and takeaways for teachers to implement in their classroom while every chapter concludes with helpful handouts to distribute directly to students Beginning with a framework and pacing guide Writing in the Social Studies examines foundational academic and real world writing concluding with a methodology for grading and a spirited plea for teachers to write themselves Teachers who believe in teaching skills through content finally have a blueprint from which to work Those who understand it is imperative students graduate with the ability to think critically and express a point of view now have a vehicle with which to achieve their goals Writing in the Social Studies will be the first book to tackle this crucial yet neglected corner of the curriculum There is a desperate need for professional development in this area and therefore also tremendous opportunity It is a professional imperative that social studies educators teach a variety of writing skills through content As a result they should have access to a resource which clearly and engagingly shows them how This is Writing in the Social Studies      Formative Assessment Improving Learning in Secondary Classrooms OECD,2005-01-25 This study features a collection of eight case studies of exemplary cases from secondary schools as well as international literature reviews and policy analysis related to formative assessment

Teaching and Learning English in Japanese Classrooms Darren Elliott,2023-05-19 This book shows how English language instructors in Japan explored the questions and issues which most closely affected them and their students in the language learning process Each of the teacher researchers had a puzzle After reviewing existing literature each writer found a way to adjust their practice and in these chapters they report on the results. Topics include educational technology, learner autonomy, feedback and novel approaches to listening, reading and writing instruction. Although the contributors are working in Japan classroom practitioners from the wider international language teaching community can benefit from the practical teaching approaches and accessible descriptions of practitioner research to be found in this book. A secondary audience of educational managers and teacher trainers will also find value in chapters which outline the ways in which an environment conducive to practitioner research can be facilitated.

A Guided Inquiry Approach to Teaching the Humanities Research Project Randell K. Schmidt, Emilia N. Giordano, Geoffrey M. Schmidt, 2015-08-26

Aligned with the Common Core this book enables teachers and librarians to develop lessons and workshops as well as to teach high school students how to research and write a humanities paper using a guided inquiry approach. Being able to use the inquiry process to successfully research, write and prepare papers and other types of presentations is not only necessary for a student's preparation for collegiate work but is truly a requisite life skill. This book provides a solid guided inquiry curriculum for cultivating the skills needed to properly investigate a subject in the humanities, interrogate both textual and non-textual sources, interpret the information, develop an understanding of the topic and effectively communicate one's findings. It is a powerful and practical guide for high school humanities teachers, school librarians, community college humanities teachers and librarians and early college level humanities instructors as well as for high school and college students who want to learn how to conduct and write up humanities research. Part one comprises a teacher's practicum that explains the power of guided inquiry. Part two contains student's workshops with instructions and materials to conduct a guided humanities project and paper on the high school level. The third part provides materials for a professional development session for this assignment as well as assessment tools and other supplementary materials such as student handouts. Based on the authors' 15 years experience in teaching guided inquiry the 20 workshops in the book use a step by step constructivist strategy for teaching a sophisticated humanities project that enables college readiness.
